THIRD GAME FOR ATHLETICS WON FROM THE GIANTS BY SINGLE RUN

New York Recovered Too
Late, Hitting Bender Freely
Towards the End

MERKLE'S HOME RUN A FEATURE OF DAY

Connie Mack's Men Have Now
Three Games of Series to McGraw's One

Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 10.—The Athletics, champions of the American League, won their third victory in the world's series of 1913, by defeating the New York Giants by a score of 6 to 5 in the fourth game of the series for the championship laurels of baseball.

Twenty thousand people saw a contest in which the Athletics took a six-run lead over their opponents, only to have it cut down to a scant one run when the Giants fell on the Indian Bender's delivery and, with a fusillade of six hits, sent five runs over the plate.

Bender held the Giants to two hits in the first six innings, but there was found freely. Merkle's home run and Shafner's three-bagger featured the New York hitting. A circus catch by Oldring cut off a run for New York.

The Athletics' defense was perfect. The Athletics have now won three games, and the New Yorks one game in the series. The two teams play at the polo grounds, New York, to-morrow, when Christy Mathewson will undoubtedly face the Athletics.

The line-up was:

New York—Snodgrass, c. f.; Herzog, b. f.; Doyle, 2 b.; Fletcher, s. c.; Burns, l. f.; Shafner, 3 b.-c. f.; Murray, r. f.; McLean, c. Wilson, c.; Merkle, 1b.; Demaree; Marquard, p.

Philadelphia—E. Murphy, r. f.; Oldring, l. f.; Collins, 2 b.; Baker, s. b.; McInnis, 3 b.; Schang, c.; Barry, s. a.; Schang, c.; Bender, p.

First Inning—New York.

Snodgrass out on a pop fly to Baker. Doyle went out on a high one to Strunk. Barry threw out Fletcher. No runs, no hits, no errors.

First Inning—Philadelphia.

Murphy flew out to Snodgrass. Oldring shot a long hit into right field for three bases. He smashed the first ball pitched. The New York players gathered around Demaree to encourage him with Eddie Collins up and a run likely. Demaree's first pitch to Collins was a ball. The second pitch was fouled off.

Oldring was out at the plate when Merkle took Collins' grounder and threw to McLean, who touched Oldring as he slid into the plate. Collins stole second while Demaree held the ball for a minute. Demaree then threw to Merkle, whose throw to second was too late to catch Collins. Baker out on a high foul to Shafner. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Second Inning—New York.

Bender had good speed and kept the ball on the corners of the plate. Burns fanned out to Murphy. Shafner fanned. Bender finding his weak spot by keeping the ball around Shafner's neck. Murray was hit on the arm by a pitched ball and went to first, muttering at Bender. McLean singled to right.

sending Murray to third. Merkle fouled out to McLean, who took the ball over near the bench. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Second Inning—Philadelphia.

McLean got a Texas leaguer to centre which the limping Snodgrass could not handle. It was a lucky hit for McLean. Strunk, out, sacrificing Demaree to Merkle. Demaree used a slow drop ball on the outside of the plate. Merkle dropped Barry's foul ball after a good run. The official scorer gave him an error.

McLean scored on Barry's long two-bagger to left. Barry claimed that Merkle interfered with him as he rounded first base, but the claim was not allowed. Schang walked after Demaree had two strikes on him. Bender fanned out to Burns. Murphy fanned out to Snodgrass. One run, two hits, one error.

Third Inning—New York.

Demaree fanned out to Murphy, who had to run over to the right field foul line to take the ball. Snodgrass out bunting. Bender to McLean. Doyle fanned out to Strunk. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Third Inning—Philadelphia.

Hergo went out to play third base and Shafner went to centre field, replacing Snodgrass, whose strained leg began to bother him. Demaree took Oldring's hopper and threw him out at first. Burns caught Collins' fly. Doyle took care of Baker, throwing him out at first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fourth Inning—New York.

Fletcher made vigorous objection when Umpire Egan called a strike on him. Fletcher fanned out to Collins. Burns popped up a fly to Baker. Bender appeared to have more "smoke" than during his first game against the Giants. He broke his curves around the knees, and then "shov'er fast ones" shoulder high across the plate. Shafner fanned for the second time. Schang threw the ball toward the bench. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fourth Inning—Philadelphia.

Doyle threw out McLean. Demaree's slow ball bothered the batters. Strunk boughed a hit off Herzog's legs. McLean almost caught Strunk off first by a quick throw to Merkle. Barry singled to left, and Strunk took third on Shafner's throw to catch Strunk at third. Barry went to second.

The New York infield then drew in.

Strunk and Barry scored on Schang's single. Schang took second on Shafner's throw to the plate to catch Barry. Schang went to third on a passed ball. Schang scored when Merkle made a mess of Bender's grounder. Murphy popped out to Doyle. Oldring singled to centre. Bender going to second. McLean threw out Collins at first. Three runs, four hits, one error.

Fifth Inning—New York.

Murray walked. Chief Bender pitching four wide balls in succession. McLean got a single to centre, and Murray went to third. Cooper ran for McLean. Schang almost caught Cooper napping off first on a snap throw. Merkle fanned.

McCormick batted in place of Demaree. Oldring caught McCormick's fly on a dead run toward the diamond. It cut off an almost sure hit, and a run for New York. Cooper out stealing. Schang to Collins. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Second Inning—New York.

Bender had good speed and kept the ball on the corners of the plate. Burns fanned out to Murphy. Shafner fanned. Bender finding his weak spot by keeping the ball around Shafner's neck. Murray was hit on the arm by a pitched ball and went to first, muttering at Bender. McLean singled to right.

PRESS COMMENT ON CHURCHILL SPEECH VARIES IN ESTIMATE OF CONCILIATION

Unionist Papers Not So Sure
Now That It Marks
Any Retreat

London, Oct. 10.—Surprise was expressed yesterday at the Times having no editorial comment on Rt. Hon. Winston Spencer Churchill's speech at Dundee. The omission is repaired today with a cautious article making nothing like the same olive-branch interpretation of the speech as did its equally Unionist contemporary, the Daily Mail.

"Ulster might be completely excluded from the bill," says the Times, "but it would still be a measure which signed away to subordinate legislature powers essential to be preserved by the imperial parliament. Anyway, the settlement must look not only to Ulster but to the whole question of the constitution, which has been left in abeyance for the sake of Home Rule."

The Daily Mail, on the other hand, persists that Mr. Churchill's speech, however one-sided in form, was in substance essentially conciliatory and that the government is ready to consider the separate treatment of Ulster.

"The plan which Mr. Churchill outlined," says the Mail, "asks for sacrifices from all parties, and if the question is to be settled by argument they must naturally make concessions all around."

Several English Unionist papers are less conciliatory than the Mail. The Standard finds Mr. Churchill's speech "disappointing," and the Daily Graphic finds his talk of concession wasted words, because Ulster's opposition is not against the details of the bill, but its principle.

The Daily Chronicle, a forceful exponent of London Liberal opinion, says that Lord Lansdowne and Bonar Law themselves know that such questions must be dealt with.

"No situation could be more unenviable than the Irish question would be," says the Chronicle, "if they defeated the bill, and the government were called upon to prescribe anew for an exasperated Ireland. For them and their party it is plainly better that the bill should pass, provided that they have, as they could have for the asking, a reasonable hearing for their views. In effect, the bill will not say less," declares the Gazette.

"What we have said formerly is that the government will do its utmost to meet the grievances of true Ulstermen, but cannot allow the bill to be wrecked and the national integrity of Ireland sacrificed to those who have used Ulster grievances to procure the defeat of Home Rule."

"The plan which Mr. Churchill outlined," says the Mail, "asks for sacrifices from all parties, and if the question is to be settled by argument they

ASKS INDICTMENT OF VICTORIA CITY

Grand Jury Declares Lock-Up is Disgrace to Civilized Community

DEFECTS HAVE BEEN NOTED FOR MANY YEARS

Mr. Justice Gregory Will Bring Matter Before the Atto-ney-General

PROVINCIAL JAIL OVER- CROWDED SAY JURORS

The attorney-general will be asked by Mr. Justice Gregory to consider the advisability of presenting an indictment to the grand jury against the city of Victoria for maintaining a nuisance in the city lock-up. His lordship announced this in the Assize court this morning when the grand jury in its presentment stated that the lock-up was a disgrace to a civilized community, and protested against the apathy shown by the city to previous criticisms by grand juries. His lordship did not discharge the grand jury, evidently intending to let them consider such an indictment if it should come before the end of the present assizes. The judge agreed with the jury that many comments had been made by grand juries and that the city had done nothing.

"There is a way that they can be compelled to take it up," he concluded.

The presentment follows:

"We, the grand jury, in addition to our other duties, have visited the provincial jail and the city lock-up.

"With regard to the former, we were received by the warden and every facility was given for the inspection of the premises. We found the place clean and tidy, but at the present time very much overcrowded, owing to the large number of men confined there awaiting trial. The new jail, when erected, will, of course, relieve this difficulty. In the meantime, if the present number of prisoners are to be cared for, we suggest that temporary repairs, with proper sanitary conveniences, be made to that portion of the building that was damaged by fire. This would very much relieve the congestion.

"Some of the prisoners complained bitterly of the length of time that had elapsed since they elected for speedy trial. Inquiry has been made of the proper authorities, and we find that the officers of the crown brought them before the proper judge at the earliest possible moment after commitment, and the date of trial was fixed by the Judge with concurrence of counsel for the accused."

"The city lock-up to our knowledge has been visited for many years by grand juries, but no attention has been paid to their recommendations. We now think it time to ask whether the attorney-general should not interfere.

The chief of police and his staff are doing their utmost with the facilities at their disposal, but the lock-up is a disgrace to a civilized community, and the conditions existing there would not be tolerated for a moment in any other department of civic management. We respectfully ask your lordship to bring this matter to the notice of the honorable the attorney-general and see if something cannot be done to remedy the present state of affairs.

"The grand jury is glad to notice that the honorable minister of justice during his visit to the province expressed the opinion that our object in dealing with criminals should be reformatory rather than punitive, and to this end indicated the desirability of establishing reformatories where particularly those who have been convicted of a first offence, not of a serious nature, might be sent. We desire to express the hope that at an early date some such institution may be established in this province.

SIGHT BY HYPNOTISM.

London, Oct. 10.—A cure of blindness by hypnotism was claimed by Alexander Erskine in a lecture before the International club for physical research. A young woman of London, Gertrude Yates, was born blind, but the machinery of the eye was intact. She merely lacked the will power to transmit to the brain objects reflected on the retina. This deficiency was supplied by the hypnotist-lecturer, who produced the girl on the platform and showed she possessed the faculty of

LOVER OF ANIMALS
REFUSES BULL-FIGHT

President Poincaré Declines Invitation
From King of Spain to See
National Sport.

Madrid, Oct. 10.—President Poincaré, of France, who is visiting here to-day, declined to attend the royal bullfight, as it was well known he is a great lover of animals.

On the way back from the royal hunting lodge, where President Poincaré and King Alfonso had lunch, the automobile frightened the horse of a civil guard, and the rider was thrown against a post. King Alfonso, who was driving his own car, witnessed the accident and jumped out, picked the man up, and skilfully bandaged his head, which was badly cut. He then placed him in an automobile and sent him to a hospital.

All this was done so quickly that President Poincaré, who was in a car ahead, was unaware of the accident, but upon learning of the details, he sent a reward back to the guard.

Municipal Finances in Saskatchewan Will Be Investigated by a Commission

Regina, Sask., Oct. 10.—The introduction of special legislation at the next session of the provincial legislature that will result in the appointment of a commission to investigate the finances of the municipalities of the province, and to regulate the issue of bonds and debentures, was promised yesterday afternoon by the members of the provincial cabinet.

A resolution was presented by a delegation from the executive of the Union of Saskatchewan Municipalities and the representatives of different cities of the province, asking for the appointment of such a commission.

The details of the powers that will be allotted to this board, and the extent of their jurisdiction, have not yet been decided upon, and another meeting between the government and the municipalities will be arranged in about two weeks' time, when more particular plans will be outlined.

In the meantime, the appointment of a commission will be considered by the various councils of the municipalities and at the next meeting it is expected that the executive will have a concrete proposal to lay before the government.

Hon. A. P. McNab, minister of public works; Hon. W. F. A. Turgeon, attorney-general; and Hon. Geo. Langley, minister of municipal affairs, were present at the conference and the entire question of the advisability of naming a board of this kind similar to the local governing board in Great Britain was thoroughly discussed.

Solomon Entirely Destroyed by Name, Alaska, Oct. 9.—The storm that devastated Nome wiped the town of Solomon entirely off the map. Not one building of any sort in the settlement, which had a population of 300, remained standing after the gale. It is reported all the inhabitants escaped with their lives when the town was blown away.

The town of Solomon stood on Norton Sound, forty miles east of Nome, on the Solomon river. It was the terminus of the Council City & Solomon River railway and a supply point for the Solomon River and Casa de Paga mining districts.

Reports state that the equipment of a number of dredging concerns there were lost in the gale.

Application of Act to Be Shortly De-

Case.

Vancouver, Oct. 10.—In the arbitration court yesterday afternoon, Judge McInnis, having found for the plaintiff on the facts, reserved judgment on the legal aspect of the case brought by the widow and children of Gus Hill against the Victoria Lumber Company.

Hill was killed by a log while working for the company in a camp at Chemainus. The evidence for the applicant was that a log, which was being towed, struck a tree and fell upon him. A defense of contributory negligence was set up.

An important point of law will be decided when judgment is given, that is, whether or not a logging camp comes within the definitions under the Workmen's Compensation Act. Clarence Darling, who appeared for applicant, contended that it did, while the representative of Deacon, Deacon & Wilson, who appeared for the respondent, argued that it did not.

Few Doses of Croxone Ease

If you suffer with backache—have pains in the neck or sides—nervous or dizzy spells—a few doses of Croxone will relieve the congestion and you will be surprised how quickly all kidney, bladder and rheumatic troubles will disappear.

Croxone promptly relieves these diseases because it really does reach the real cause. It soaks right into the walls and linings of the kidneys, cleans out the stopped-up inactive organs, neutralizes and dissolves the uric acid and makes the kidneys sift from the blood the waste and poisonous matter that lodge in the joints and muscles to scratch and irritate and cause rheumatism. It soothes and heals the delicate linings of the bladder and gives the kidneys renewed strength so they can filter the blood and keep you well.

Croxone is different from all other remedies. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it without results. An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if it should fail in a single case.

UNDERWOOD OBJECTS

Father of Measure Not in Favor of Repealing Preference to American Shipping

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10.—Efforts to repeal the five per cent discount provision on American ships, which has aroused the state and national legislators, met a setback in the speech of Chairman Underwood, of the ways and means committee, original champion of the clause.

After Chairman Underwood, of the senate committee, who advocated repeal of the measure, had talked to Mr. Underwood, he announced that there would be no developments in the matter for several days.

It was also stated that President Wilson's mind in the premises still was open.

Mr. Underwood emphatically favors the provision and did not hesitate to say so.

"The tariff is now a law, and I am for the bill as it stands," Mr. Underwood declared. "If the President thinks the issues grave enough to send a message to Congress urging the adoption of the discount provisions, or if he wishes it repeated, I will support the ways and means committee to consider the idea. But, even then, I would not favor a vote until a thorough hearing had been held."

Mr. Underwood further stated that he believed there was a misconception in the departments regarding the clause and he believed it would work out advantageously to this country.

London, Oct. 10.—The belief of the militant incendiaries that, under the "Cat and Mouse" Act, they were assured of speedy release from prison by "hunger strikes," received a rude shock yesterday by the announcement of the Home Secretary that Miss May Richardson, who has been in prison since October 4 on the charge of arson, and who has been refusing food since her arrest, would not be given her freedom.

The prison authorities have been instructed to resort to forcible feeding if necessary to prevent the incendiaries from starving themselves to death.

The Home Secretary says the act will continue to be applied as heretofore to minor suffragette leaders, whose crimes do not include acts of serious violence.

Queenston, Ont., Oct. 10.—A bad wreck occurred yesterday when the Michigan Central train, bound for Niagara on the Lake, struck an open switch. The engine was turned completely over, and the tender and two passenger coaches were derailed and badly wrecked.

ALBERTA HOUSE IS MAKING PROGRESS

Great Waterways Bill Will Be Reported Next Week; Opposition Leader Ill

Edmonton, Alta., Oct. 10.—After a week's discussion of the Great Waterways Bill in committee of the whole in the legislature, including a sitting which lasted until 8:30 yesterday morning, the government and opposition whips reached a compromise on the debate last night. It has been decided that the bill will be reported on Monday next.

The arrangement was largely the result of the sudden illness of E. Michener, leader of the opposition, who developed appendicitis yesterday afternoon. He was rushed to his hotel, and the medical men called in reported that he was in a serious condition last night. Mr. Hillcock, one of the opposition leaders, is also confined to his home by an attack of sciatica.

The main objection urged to the bill yesterday was that it should not provide for guarantees of sidings. The opposition contended that this was got in the usual railway guarantees, and, in support of their views, quoted railway legislation of other provinces. A number of amendments dealing with this question were moved, but were defeated on party divisions. The government benches left all the talking to the opposition.

In reply to questions, Premier Sifton said that J. F. Reid, of Regina, was not agent for Alberta in London.

Hon. Duncan Marshall, minister of education, introduced a bill providing that threshers shall have protection for their wages by liens upon the grain threshed.

As a result of a conference between a delegation representing Calgary College and the Premier, in which the delegation pressed for degree-conferring powers for the southern institution, the bill presented by Dr. Blow having that object in view will be withdrawn, the government is making arrangements to appoint a committee composed of members of the senate of the University of Alberta and Calgary College, who will investigate the entire situation. The government, after receiving the committee's report, will take some definite action.

The legislators did not meet last evening, the members enjoying a well-earned rest after long sessions early in the week.

ARMAND LAVERGNE WINS A LIBEL SUIT

Gets Moderate Damages Against Newspaper for Publication of Speech.

Montreal, Oct. 10.—Newspapers in this province which publish fair reports of public meetings, in the course of which utterances of a libelous nature are made, do so at their own risk and on their own responsibility. Such is the decision of Mr. Justice Panneton, in a judgment wherein his lordship has condemned La Patrie to pay Mr. Armand Lavergne the sum of $25.

Mr. Lavergne sued owing to a certain accusation made by Albert Sevigny, M. P., in the course of a speech in the Hochelaga bye-election campaign a year ago. La Patrie reported the meeting, gave a faithful report of Mr. Sevigny's speech, and maintained in its plea that the utterances made at the meeting in question, being made of public interest, formed a fair subject for a newspaper article.

Mr. Sevigny himself admitted that the report published was a good summary of his speech, but where the newspaper erred, according to the judge, was in drafting the heading wherein the accusation of Mr. Sevigny was made a sort of positive assertion.

MAKES NAVY THE ISSUE.

London, Oct. 10.—Commercial quarters are betraying scepticism as to the ultimate result of the Imperial trade commission. It is officially stated that no further meeting will be held till November, and no further evidence taken from this country.

The commissioners are due to go to South Africa early next year, and must subsequently visit Canada and also inspect the Panama Canal. There are rumors that the commission will collapse before completing its labors.

MAKES NAVY THE ISSUE.

London, Ont., Oct. 10.—Hon. W. T. White, minister of finance, speaking for the Borden government last night at Lambeth, formally accepted the navy question as the paramount issue before the Canadian people and particularly before the people of East Middlesex, who are to vote in a by-election on the 21st of this month. Mr. White said Sir Wilfrid Laurier was not "speedy enough" in carrying out the wishes of the country.

TWO CONSERVATIVE PAPERS QUARREL

Mutt and Jeff Cartoons Responsible for Lawsuit Between Herald and Star

Montreal, Oct. 10.—A suit for $100,000 damages arising out of an alleged conspiracy to destroy the Montreal Herald and ruin its business was entered in the Superior court yesterday by the Herald Company, Limited.

The defendants are the Montreal Star Publishing Company, Limited, a New Jersey corporation, controlled by Hearst; Sir Hugh Graham, owner of the Standard and Star; and F. Crandall, managing editor of the Star.

Particulars of the allegations on which the suit is based are given in full in the plaintiff's declaration, alleging a protracted and widespread conspiracy on the part of the defendants, and other persons unknown, to prevent the Montreal Herald from having access to certain sources of supply from which daily newspapers secure their circulation-building features.

It is also claimed that the Canadian defendants formed a so-called syndicate and induced the New Jersey defendant to break its contract with the Toronto World and transfer its service to their syndicate, by which means the Toronto World was prevented from delivering to the Herald the features and services which it had contracted to deliver.

The Toronto World yesterday secured an interim injunction restraining the New Jersey corporation from delivering its service to the Star syndicate until further hearing. The World editorially asserts that Sir Hugh Graham controls the Star, Conservative, and the Herald, which had been Liberal for over a century until its recent change of ownership.

All this trouble is over Mutt and Jeff, the Bud Fisher series. Mutt and Jeff are causing considerable furor apparently in eastern newspaper circles, the first news of the excitement reaching the Pacific coast yesterday in the shape of a telegram to newspapers from the Toronto World as follows:

"Take warning. We have secured interlocutory injunction in Montreal restraining Crandall and associates, Montreal Star people, from being or selling International News Service in Canada, including Mutt and Jeff."

While these injunctions are going the rounds it is possible that Mutt and Jeff may be a bit irregular in their appearance, but everybody is hoping for the best.

COLORADO STRIKERS AND MINE GUARDS FIGHT

Innocent Cowherd Killed, Mistaken for One of the Attacked.

Ludlow, Colo., Oct. 10.—Mack Powell, a cowherd, was killed and three others were wounded late yesterday afternoon, when a battle was waged between strikers and mine guards near Ludlow tent colony, which lasted for an hour and a half. Reports were made to Sheriff Grisham, of Trinidad, who was summoned here hastily.

The riot began when members of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company were on their way in an automobile to the station at Ludlow. They were proceeding to secure an electric searchlight which had arrived by express, and with which they intended to keep their property lighted at night for protection against violent strikers.

It is said by the sheriff that the strikers, knowing of the arrival of the searchlight, had determined to prevent its installation.

When the machine was within half a mile of the Ludlow station, strikers, it is reported, began firing upon it and its occupants. Bullets struck the car but no one was wounded.

For some while the guards who accompanied the machine returned the fire which was being directed at them from long range. Then more guards arrived and for an hour the firing was fast and furious.

Vancouver, Oct. 10.—Thieves entered the home of Dr. C. W. Proud, 1345 Thirteenth avenue West, shortly before 8 o'clock last night and removed silverware from the diningroom to the value of $600. Dr. Proud responded to an outside call shortly after dinner and Mrs. Proud went upstairs to dress for the theatre. She thought she heard a noise from below and on going down found that the diningroom had been stripped of its silverware. The theft had been carried out without turning out a single light.

AWAITING JUDGMENT IN COMPANY CASE

Ottawa, Oct. 10.—Judgment by the Supreme court of Canada in the Companies Act reference is expected during the October sittings of that tribunal. The argument was made last spring and the case has been under advisement by the judges during the summer recess. It will define the relative powers of the Dominion and the provinces in respect to incorporating and licensing companies.

Whichever contention is upheld, the case probably will go to the Privy Council. There is a suggestion, however, that the issue may be settled by the provinces waiving their rights, should they be upheld, and being compensated by the Dominion government to the extent of any revenue they may lose from extra-provincial companies being incorporated only at Ottawa.

THE CANAL OPENED.

Pressing an electric button at the White House to-day, President Woodrow Wilson exploded the last obstacle in the great inter-oceanic waterway across Panama. This is the beginning of the end of those immense activities which under the direction of an engineer of splendid genius are bringing to completion a year ahead of the estimated time one of the greatest projects of history, a project which promises to revolutionize the commerce of the world.

Much, of course, remains to be done. Great slides and disturbances have to be guarded against, but the main obstacles have been overcome and the day is near at hand when the ships of all nations will pass through the waterway from one great ocean to another. This gigantic enterprise which will cost nearly half a billion dollars has been most admirably performed. Authorized by the administration of President Roosevelt, it has been kept religiously remote from the devious operations of politics and politicians. Engineers famed for their ability and professional integrity have been selected to superintend the work. Every precaution has been taken to protect the employees from those maladies indigenous to tropical countries. The dispatch with which the operations have been carried on is in some measure a personal triumph for Colonel Goethals, the chief commissioner in charge, and a vindication of the methods he adopted in the discharge of his all-important duty.

AN ECHO FROM THE PAST.

"It would lead to the overthrow of the Empire; the majority are only seeking illegitimate power; it is we, the minority, who stand for justice and protection and impartial government; a colonial cabinet is absurd; the local and sectional interests are too strong; the British government must remain as amiable to keep the parties from flying at one another's throats."

Nine people out of ten, if you asked them, would say that the foregoing was an extract from one of the speeches, pamphlets or Unionist editorials in opposition to Home Rule for Ireland. It is almost the identical language, the veritable accent, of Ulster. And yet that answer would be incorrect. The extract, instead of being from the protest of the Ulster minority against Home Rule for Ireland, is from a protest on the part of the minority in Canada against Home Rule for this country sixty years ago.

Those Canadians who at that time arrogated to themselves the title of loyalists and claimed to be the exclusive custodians of imperial interests, bitterly denounced the proposal to destroy self-government in Canada. They lodged the protest, of which the paragraph quoted is an extract, with the British parliament. Self-government in Canada, they declared, "would mean the overthrow of the empire." Self-government in Ireland, well meaning but narrow-minded objectors may say, will have similar direful consequences. "The majority are seeking illegitimate power," wailed the minority in Canada seventy years ago. The majority in Ireland will contend a hateful oligarchy at Dublin, contend the Ulster minority to-day. "We, the minority, alone stand for justice, protection and impartial government," maintained the opponents of self-government in this country in days gone by; the Ulster minority urge similar claims to-day. And so on in every word and idea the restrictions of three-quarters of a century ago put up the same arguments advanced by the Unionists now.

How thoroughly those jaundiced forebodings of the Family Compact and their narrow-grained champions were falsified every Canadian knows. In the light of our history it is amusing to turn back the pages of the record and read again the dire prophecies which resounded not only in Canada, but in the British parliament as well. Lord Durham, a far-sighted statesman, saw the situation with unerring vision. He told the British government that the only thing that would keep Canada a British country would be recognition of the right of the Canadian people to govern themselves. The majority demanded it, and they obtained it. Not for an instant would they have permitted the minority in this country to impose their will upon them.

The granting of Home Rule to Canada turned out to be one of the glories of British statesmanship. In twenty-five years the young country had developed so far that her statesmen undertook the grand project of a confederation of the provinces and the colony became a dominion of wonderful promise. And right there was laid the foundation of self-government in Australia and South Africa, the principle of which some day will be extended to India and Egypt. In Canada at that time a large proportion of the population belonged to a race which had fought Britain for centuries, and yet Home Rule was granted to them. In South Africa the smoke had scarcely risen from the battlefield on which Briton and Boer were locked in a death grapple when the boom of self-government was bestowed on the country. Then why not Ireland? As the predictions of the alarmists in Canada years ago were soon proved to be ludicrous, may we not expect that the blue ruin prophecies of to-day will be shown to be unfounded in the case of Ireland?

AUSTRALIA'S LAND POLICY.

A Vancouver contemporary publishes an interview with a gentleman from Victoria, Australia, who visiting this country as a special commissioner to study land settlement methods. We may be sure it did not take him long to complete his investigation in British Columbia, for the unquestionable reason that there are no land settlement methods to speak of in operation here. He says as much in his interview. "British Columbia," he declares, "will never become the agricultural province. It should be with spasmodic efforts at development. The province must be systematically developed, and I think your farmers ought to receive every aid and encouragement from the government."

He then explains that in Victoria his state, the country was converted from an essentially mining and stock-raising district into a mixed farming community to the advantage of everybody. The government lends money to the farmers to open up their farms up to sixty per cent. of the value of the land, for which the farmers pay six per cent. interest per annum. The government also builds houses for the settlers, and assists them in improving the land.

"In Australia," he adds, "the government runs the savings banks and pays about three and one-half per cent. a year on deposits. This money must of course be safely invested and we feel, and rightly I think, that no safer investment could be made than to lend the money out to our own farmers, who are the producers of the wealth, to develop the land. In my own state we have at present over $10,000,000 out in long term loans at low interest and I do not know of a single case where the government has lost any money at all. This system could be well adopted in this country and would have the effect, as it does in Australia, of keeping the rates charged by private banks within a reasonable limit, for they can not charge high rates with government competition."

The Times has urged frequently that this province adopt measures in aid of land development similar to those described by the Australian commissioner. But this cannot be done as long as the orgy of land speculation which has been in progress for years is allowed to continue. Already most of our best land has been alienated to speculators. The excuse given by the government and its supporters for the failure to organize an effective colonization policy is that railways are first necessary to open up the province. But long before railway construction is started parties on the inside drive their stakes into all the good land along the route of the proposed road, and there is nothing left for the settler but the mountain tops.

British Columbia is a constant source of surprise to visitors. They cannot understand why a province so remarkably adapted for the production of foodstuffs should be such a large importer of these products, not only from other provinces, upon which freight has to be paid, but from foreign countries, involving the additional burden of a stiff customs duty. During the last session of parliament J. A. Rudick, dominion dairy and cold storage commissioner, in giving evidence before the select standing committee on agriculture and colonization, referred to the large importations of dairy products by this province from the United States and New Zealand. People who read the list of our food imports must have the impression that we have no arable land at all that this province consists of timber and mountains. The whole thing is a monstrous absurdity, for which we may blame the application of that extraordinary doctrine "Give the speculator a chance."

MR. PUNCH ORDERS A NEW SUIT.

A crisis has been reached in the history of the British empire. It is not the Irish question that is going to cause a convulsion, because that trifling misunderstanding will undoubtedly be settled peacefully and to the lasting benefit of all concerned. It is a far bigger thing than Home Rule that is going to shake the constitutional foundations of the realm upon which the sun never sets. Punch is going to change its front page and be printed henceforth on a two-color press. In order that the shock of this intelligence may not prove too severe upon the systems of some thousands of its readers who regard all change with abhorrence, the publishers of the great comic journal—still the greatest in its particular field notwithstanding that it sometimes prints dull and dreary articles that may nevertheless appeal to the sensibilities of certain of its clientele and despite disparaging references from some quarters to the quality of its humor—the publishers of Mr. Punch, we repeat, point out that this will not be the first time he has turned his coat and presented a new and more attractive figure to the eyes of his many friends. He has changed his garb seven times, and has not only survived the temporary exposure but appeared to gather new health and vigor from the change. Being a true Briton, Punch likes to prove that there are precedents for the change he purposes making in his garb. But it will undoubtedly be a shock for John Bull, sitting in his club window in Pall Mall—sitting in his club window in Pall Mall—nowadays—to have his loved comic journal presented to him, say, in a red coat. We are not surprised to be informed by his publishers that Punch never in all his career, not even when such an immortal as Thackeray was a regular contributor, was more prosperous and popular than he is today. He is an established British institution and his foundation appears to be as solid as the empire.

The Toronto Globe holds that now the German menace has gone the way of all immaterial things, the Dominion government ought to open its eyes to conditions in the west and construct a frontier for the defence of the Pacific coast, in this matter following the example of Australia. Hon. W. T. White, on the other hand, speaking at a political meeting in Middlesex, Ont., says the government will stick to its programme of annual contributions, will fight the bye-elections on that line, and instances the cases of New Zealand and South Africa in support of the policy of the Borden administration. But the New Zealand government that inaugurated a policy of contributions was defeated at the polls by a big majority and the government which succeeded it has practically given notice of its intention of abandoning the programme of its predecessor. When the final decision of South Africa in the matter of naval policy is announced, there is a strong probability that the Borden government of Canada will find itself in a position of humiliating isolation. In the meantime what of the declaration "that nothing will be satisfactory to British Columbia that does not provide for a naval unit on the Pacific coast?"

The department of agriculture at Washington announces that the typhus devastatrix has invaded the United States onion and the industry is in jeopardy. This is terrible news. If the typhus devastatrix has been able to cross the Atlantic and Pacific oceans from Europe and Australia, where it has been festively rioting in the onion crop, what is to prevent it from crawling over the boundary line into Canada? The onion is one of the strongest bulwarks of our civilization and should it be attacked by this monster what will become of us? For general information we may add that the typhus devastatrix is a genus of minute parasitic nematoid worms of the family anguilidae. This shows how imminent is the danger.

We have a letter from "Voter" referring to the allegation that money has been offered for corrupt purposes in connection with the Sooke Lake waterworks contracts. Our correspondent is right in holding that an investigation should be made into such charges. But he appears to be wrong in assuming that one alderman should shoulder the responsibility of laying charges and proving them. Our understanding of the matter is that more than one alderman alleges that money is or was floating around. The city council itself, not any individual, should take cognizance of these things and institute an investigation that will establish the facts and clear the matter up. The council owes that much to its members and to the community in general.

into Ottawa from Quebec bearing one Armand Lavergne. Upon his arrival he hastened to the Premier's residence to look the state over and see whether it was satisfactory to the Nationalists as far as the Quebec representation was concerned. The big financial magnates had already revised it in their interests. Sir William Mackenzie being conspicuous among the cabinet makers. And when good Conservatives from all over Canada came to the name of Bob Rogers on the list they turned their faces to the wall.

Our contemporary is disposed to be gay these melancholy days. This morning it says that Mr. Borden's government is characterized by strength, ability, foresight, prudence and initiative. It left out beauty, wit, wisdom, speed, control, batting average, sobriety, humility and loving-kindness. And the poor man himself is afraid to meet his parliament until January. How our contemporary must have chuckled to itself when it showered all those adjectives on his head!

A comely youth was acquitted of grand larceny by a jury of women in Seattle on Wednesday, although there was a pretty strong case against him. If he were fat and forty the verdict would probably have been guilty with a recommendation that the punishment be the extreme limit. In such circumstances what chance has a respectably plain man against a gentlemanly Raffles? Now, indeed, are the sins of the fathers visited upon the children unto the third and fourth generations.

Allegations of graft in this city a few years ago resulted in the appointment of a county court judge as commissioner to investigate them. Two aldermen in regular council session on Monday declared that attempts at bribery had been made, and that "there was money going around." They should be given an opportunity to prove their charges. Either they were telling the truth or they were not. Which is it?

The officials of the Post Office Department at Washington declare that not only will the parcels post branch pay its way, but that it will be responsible for a $10,000,000 surplus. In New York the service has proved an immense boon to the smaller merchants who have no extensive delivery systems of their own, and to this extent the consumers have benefited.

TREATMENT OF MURDERERS.
(Montreal Star.)
The persistence of the crime of murder, however, ought to give pause to those who preach to us from time to time the soft sentiment that it is wrong for society to protect itself by taking human life. A swift detection—a stern and businesslike trial—then a punishment which can alone equal the crime—are the only measure of protection which society can invoke. We ought to avoid very carefully making a hero of the criminal. That is precisely the best way to tempt other men, avid of notoriety, into his tragic course. The suspected of a grim crime should be made to feel that he is under suspicion of having done a very cowardly and ignoble thing; and, if found guilty, should be dropped from public interest by concerted common sense.

HANDWRITING ON THE WALL.
Riggin Leader.

In their short-sighted and folly of their manufacturers untouched themselves, adopted a dog-in-the-manger policy and refused liberty to our farmers to sell their products where they would. They took this stand upon the wholly selfish ground that if the farmer, rancher and merchant enjoyed freedom in the matter of selling his wares to whom before they demanded freedom in buying. Now when it is too late they are beginning to realize their blunder. The lowering of the United States tariff is whetting the appetite of the Canadian people for a like measure of relief from extortion and organized robbery. The Canadian tariff must come down, and that at no distant date, and when the work of reducing the tariff wall begins the workers will not stop at food products, but will insist that all other necessities of life, manufactured as well as natural products, shall be made free to the people.

BROKEN THREADS UNITED

Essanay Feature Photoplay in Two Parts at Kinemacolor Theatre.

Yesterday opened the three-day programme at the Kinemacolor theatre with the Essanay Company's latest two-act feature entitled, "Broken Threads United." Mr. Thomas Commerford, playing the leading role of Hiram Daniels, more than demonstrates his remarkable dramatic ability. His portrayal of this character seems to be so natural that it has entirely made the piece. Supporting Mr. Commerford, the Essanay cast, headed by Miss Doris Mitchell and Richard C. Travers, give the photoplay public a thrilling drama that will be remembered long.

An illustration of the city's lures. It is strong both in theme and in acting. It is a story of one of the new kinds of bunco game that has been invented to take the place of the obsolete gold brick swindle.

Hiram Daniels, a lovable, wealthy old country widower with a charming daughter, comes alone to the city on business and is roped into a mock marriage with an adventuress. He takes his supposed wife home, and naturally, the daughter, having a woman's perception of her sex, observes that father has picked a lemon in the garden of love. The daughter leaves for the city and her father and lover follow. They employ a detective to find her, which he does, and incidentally exposes the swindle.

Among other films, Pathé's weekly of world events, which always contains many items of universal interest, is being shown, a splendid comedy is enjoyed with the Edison company, entitled "As the Tooth Came Out" and a 9,725-foot ascent of "The Rifflehorn," Switzerland, is beautifully shown in Kinemacolor.

Prepare for Welcome.—The reception committee of the city school board to prepare for the reception to be accorded the visiting school trustees' convention in the week after next will sit this afternoon and prepare a scheme.

Mr. Alda Coming.

White Mme. Alda, who is to sing in the Victoria Theatre on October 17, is best known as one of the principals of the Metropolitan Opera Company, the splendid aggregation of artists under the management of Signor Gatti-Casazza, her husband, that distinguished soprano is not pre-eminent alone in the field of opera. Her voice, art and personality have proven no less suited to the demands of the concert stage, where many of her most marked successes have been achieved. These successes have been gained largely through a technique so perfect that Mme. Alda is often referred to as a mistress absolute of that seldom-found but much-discussed quality, the legato. Her voice is a full, vibrant instrument of genuinely lovely tone.

Shipping News from Day to Day

RUPERT CITY IS NOT LIKELY TO CALL IN

Freighter Will Proceed Direct From Sound to the Orient

Victoria shipping men are not likely to have the expected opportunity of bidding a final farewell to the famous steamship Rupert City, which is to leave this coast this week-end for Japan. According to an announcement made this morning by Dodwell & Co., agents for the vessel, it is almost certain that the former coaster will steam direct to Yokohama from Tacoma, omitting the stop at this port. The freight which the Rupert City was to have taken on here was shifted to Tacoma and consequently the ship has nothing to call in here for.

It was announced some time ago that the vessel, which in the early days of Prince Rupert carried record crowds of passengers to that port from Vancouver, was to load about 500 tons of salt herring at the outer docks and shipping men were expecting to have a last fond look at the ship which has gained considerable notoriety on this coast. The Rupert City has been in many services, but she failed to return very good profits to her operators.

The Rupert City is never expected to return to this coast, as it is believed she will be sold to the Japanese and placed in the coasting trade there.

Blue Funnel Notes

To-morrow the Blue Funnel liner Ixion, Capt. Reipenhausen, is scheduled to leave from Yokohama for Victoria and should arrive here on Friday, October 24. She is bringing a fair cargo from the United Kingdom and will put off some at that port.

The steamship Ajax, Capt. Thompson, is due to call here on Sunday at noon on her way out to the Orient to pick up some mail and also about 35 Chinese. She will only be berthed a few hours.

On Monday of next week the Antilochus, Capt. Flynn, will berth at the ocean docks to load 3,000 barrels of whale oil for the United Kingdom.

RETURNS FROM LONG TRIP.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 10.—The power schooner P. J. Abler, with the Captain Frank Kleinschmidt hunting and scientific expedition, which sailed from Seattle May 3 for Siberia, Kamchatka and Alaska, arrived back Wednesday night laden with specimens for the Carnegie Institute of Pittsburgh.

Umatilla in From San Francisco With 33 Passengers; Heavy Weather

For some unaccountable reason very few passengers are now travelling north from San Francisco. When the Pacific coast steamship Umatilla, Capt. Owen, arrived here this morning from the Golden Gate, she had only 33 persons on board, ten of whom were booked for this port. The boats are unable to accommodate the numerous people who wish to go south to California, but conditions in regard to northbound travel are the very reverse. The passengers who are leaving Frisco now are mostly business men who are forced to travel.

The Umatilla was delayed on the voyage to Victoria by head winds and strong seas. It was 9 o'clock before the vessel was "ast" at her berth this morning, as she lost about six hours on the run. As soon as the Umatilla stuck her nose out around the Frisco heads she was buffeted by a very heavy gale, and it continued to assault her until she was well inside Cape Flattery. Off Cape Mendocino and the Columbia river the vessel felt the storm at its height.

At this port the Umatilla discharged several hundred tons of freight, and cleared for the Sound about 1 o'clock. The passengers who disembarked here were as follows: E. H. O'Neill, J. Burman, Miss Ann Edgell, W. Gibson, G. Leonard and wife and S. Rands.

Congress Due Seattle. Information was received this morning by the local agents of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company stating that the new liner Congress will reach Seattle from San Francisco on her maiden voyage Tuesday, October 21. She will sail south four days late.

SAY MASTER WAS DRINKING.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 10.—A court of inquiry, representing the British board of trade and the crown, yesterday held a hearing to fix responsibility for the loss of the British ship Glenanslin near Nehalem on September 30 last. Filing of testimony was completed, but judgment was withheld.

Both mates and the Chinese steward testified that Capt. Williams had been drinking on the day of the disaster.

The captain was not questioned on this point.

TERrible HARSHIPS OF AMARANTH'S CREW

Woman and Baby Lived on One Biscuit and Few Tomatoes a Day

San Francisco, Oct. 10.—Arriving yesterday from Tahiti on the liner Ventura, the captain and crew of the wrecked barquentine Amaranth, which was lost on Jarvis Island, brought no word of the American schooner Americana, also reported wrecked on Jarvis Island. This confirms the previous supposition that there was an error in transmitting the names, and that the Americana, long missing, is sunk with all hands.

The survivors of the Amaranth brought a story of adventure. With Capt. C. W. Neilson on the Amaranth's last voyage were his wife and baby in arms. But though they had passed through experiences which must have tested the endurance of the hardest seamen, woman and baby showed no worse effect of the disaster than a healthy sea tan.

Fourteen Days in Open Boat.

Fourteen days the crew spent in the wrecked vessel's boats, on the voyage from Jarvis to the nearest human habitation. Sometimes it was rough; sometimes still and hot; for two days it rained, as it rains in the tropics. At all times there was a scarcity of food that made haste imperative.

The two boats stayed together for eighteen hours, and after that neither

SHIPPING MUCH COAL UP COAST TO RUPERT

Princess Ena to Take Full Cargo; Shortage Has Not Delayed Trains

Despite the coal stringency on this coast, resulting from the tie-up at the Nanaimo and Extension mines, the Grand Trunk Pacific has been successful so far in securing sufficient coal to keep the tenders of the engines running round Prince Rupert continually filled. At times the steamers calling at Union Bay for coal have not been able to get all the coal that the Grand Trunk would like, but the scarcity has not affected the operation of the trains.

The C. P. R. steamer Princess Ena is now at Union loading a full cargo of about 1,200 tons of coal for Prince Rupert and Ketchikan. She will be ready to steam north to-morrow. The majority of the coal will be discharged at the Grand Trunk terminus, although considerable will go to replenish the stock of the Ketchikan commissioners. The Alaska towns are getting in their winter supplies of fuel, footstuffs and clothing, as shortly the steamship companies will be withdrawing some of their boats from the run and the towns will therefore not be visited so often.

Northern Fields Needed.

The need of the opening up of coal-field in the north is being keenly felt in the north to-day. There are several companies conducting experiments on the Queen Charlotte Island and in the interior of Central British Columbia, but so far they are not in a position to bid for business. The fact that the northern towns have to rely on the Vancouver Island mines as the source for their supply of coal, is greatly hampered by all in the towns up the coast. It is hoped that before long that the developments now well underway in northern British Columbia will result in the opening up of some fine coal-fields.

NASTY WEATHER FOR CANADA'S DEPARTURE

Japanese Liner Carrying Some Bride-Seekers Gets Away To-night for Orient

Capt. Yamamoto, master of the Onaka Shosen Kaisha liner Canada Maru, will have to pilot his ship out from Victoria this evening under bad weather conditions. The misty rain which is falling makes it difficult to see any distance, and outside the wind is blowing hard and the weather on the whole is very disagreeable. It will be midnight before the steamship reaches Cape Flattery, and it is expected she will receive a warm reception as soon as she heads out on to the broad Pacific.

Telegraphic advices received this morning from Tacoma informed the local agents that the Canada did not depart from there until 9 o'clock, and she is not looked for here until 5 o'clock. As there are only a few passengers to embark at this port, the vessel will not be detained very long, and will probably be away for the Orient an hour after she berths.

The misty weather may prove a little troublesome to Capt. Yamamoto in getting his ship outside the land. The westerly winds are blowing fairly hard off the coast, and the Canada may have a few days' stormy weather crossing the Pacific.

Bride-Seekers' Leave.

The reason that only a few passengers have been booked here for the Canada was caused through the Tacoma office cutting down the allotted space. Arrangements were made to carry an excursion of Japanese from this coast to Japan on the Canada, and owing to the heavy demand for tickets nearly all outside space had to be called in. Japanese from Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and California are going out on the Osaka liner.

MUD FETLOCK DEEP BUT GOOD TIMES MADE

Forge Had Great Lead in Fifth;
Azurea Won; Horses
Change Hands

For Saturday the officials of the Country Club have arranged one of the most pretentious cards of the meet. On get-away-day, an extra purse of $600 has been hung up and the pick of the horses at the track have been entered in the different events. It will probably be the final racing under the auspices of the Country Club at the Willows track, as the management have announced their intentions of having a new mile track in operation by next spring.

Favorites Broke Even.

The track was fetlock deep in mud. The times were excellent, considering the heavy going, and with every trainer sending his mounts to the post in a last endeavor to take some of the prizes, there was some rare old racing by the older animals. As high as seven to one was paid on some of the outsiders, while the favorites were hammered down to the small odds of ten to seven. Azurea paid but $2.20 to win, while Forge was but little better. Both of these horses stood out above their fields, and they won in nice fashion. The most exciting race of the day was when Flying came up from the rear guard and captured first place in a drive from The Monk.

Longshot in First.

One of the big surprises was when Lord of the Forest romped home a winner in the first race, Mono Lake being considered a sure winner. The Keno stables put over a brace of winners in Hazel E. and Gilbert Rose, while Taylor piloted a couple of the Carlin and Moody speeders, Calcium and Azurea to the front in splendid fashion. The latter took a hard fought race from a field of real class, beating out Emerald Isle in the stretch run. It was a nice showing for the local stable, and Taylor was generally given credit for his clever riding. Forge made a runaway of the fifth race, being twenty lengths in front, going down the back stretch and winning in an easy gallop. Claver had a couple of winners, while Hill sent Flying under the wire in front for the second longest price of the day.

Tout Was Given "Gate."

General Manager George A. Fraser gave an ambitious tout ten minutes to leave the track, and Chief of Police Handley gave him four hours to leave the municipality for trying to get away with a couple of race tickets. It was stated by the authorities that this man had secured $4 from a woman to back a certain horse, but that instead he placed the bets on another animal, thinking that the tip he had handed the woman would not come through. Much to his surprise, the horse, Cal Curn, ran second, and when the woman went to get her winnings, he said that he had bet on the horse to win. Chief Handley was called, and upon searching the man found that he had purchased other tickets. He was summarily ejected from the track, and it was stated that a strict watch

SOCER FEATURE AT BEACON HILL

Wards and Wests Clash for First Time in Recent Years; Teams Have Been Selected

For the first time in several years the Wards and Wests will clash in a senior soccer tilt at Beacon Hill tomorrow afternoon. To the winner goes the leadership in the Victoria and District Football Association, and the chances are that the club which pulls out a win in tomorrow's big feature will go through to the finals without a skip. It is not necessary to tell of the rivalry between these clubs, as local football fans well know the famous contests between these teams in past years. The Wests have been champions for three years now, and Manager Jack Youson states that his team is good enough to score its fourth successive championship. The Wards have secured the pick of the former professional eleven to oppose the aspirations of the green and white eleven, and tomorrow's clash marks the first meeting between these teams.

Rangers to Improve.

Many of the horses have changed hands in the past week, and Peter Clark is having a busy time booking accommodation for the hundreds of thoroughbreds through to Juarez, Mexico. J. C. Parriz disposed of a number of good ones, Rimfax, the sensational two-year-old sprinter being among the number to go under the hammer. Judge Leighton was the auctioneer, the horses bringing a good price for this time of the year. Tahoe was sold to J. A. Bonfield for $1,200 by J. A. McKinney, the aggregate price being $2,780.

Jockey Forsythe gave Flying a grand ride in the final race to snatch a victory from the Monk in the stretch.

Jews Observe Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement.

At sunset this evening the most significant day in the Jewish year will be ushered in with fasting and prayer. Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, is more generally observed than any other Hebrew fast. Only those who have definitely and finally severed their relations with Judaism refrain from some observance of the day. While the unorthodox Jew may not fast for twenty-four hours, nor attend the services in the synagogue, he at least abstains from food. There is a general closing of Jewish business places.

Between sunset to-night and sunset to-morrow night the orthodox Jew must drop all mundane affairs and devote the period to fasting, penance, prayer and attendance at a synagogue. It is the custom of the more devout to spend the entire twenty-four hours in a synagogue. The Reformed Hebrew congregations do not require so much from their members.

In the orthodox places of worship Tom Kippur begins this evening with the chanting of the ancient Kol Nidre, a petition for forgiveness for broken vows. A sermon usually follows, and the service concludes with prayer and hymns. Most of the worshippers then go to their homes, but some remain in silent supplication throughout the night.

Early to-morrow morning the devout will again assemble in the synagogue. Among the congregations that cling to the ancient customs, the men and women are segregated, and the women are dressed in white, while the masculine worshippers wear shrouds. Prayer and singing alternate for several hours, after which comes the reading of the scrolls. At the end of the day the impressive rite of the Nigella, symbolic of the sealing of the Book of Life, the closing of Jehovah's ledger, brings the impressive Yom Kippur service to a close. After a final prayer, and the Tekheh Gdalo, or blast of the horn, the congregation files out and is at liberty to break its fast.

Tom Kippur, or Yom Ha-Kippurim, was instituted by Moses as a day of penitence, when Jews may atone for the sins of the whole people. In the Talmud it is called the Day of Great Fasting.

The biblical authority for Yom Kippur is contained in the verses in Leviticus:

"Upon the tenth day of this seventh month shall be the Day of Atonement; it shall be the most solemn and shall be called holy; and you shall afflict your souls on that day, and shall offer a holocaust to the Lord; you shall do no servile work in the time of this month."

It is further provided that the fast shall extend "from evening until evening," and that the sacrifices to be provided shall be two buck goats for the atonement of sin and a ram for the "holocaust to the Lord."

ACTOR'S DIALECT.

Maurice Barrymore was once in London with a new piece which he was anxious to have produced. He had read it to a manager, and it had been decided that he was to play the leading role. About a week after it was supposed to have been definitely settled, "Barry" received a note from the manager asking him to call. Barrymore called, and the manager said: "I like the piece, old fellow, but I don't see how I can use you in the cast. Your beastly American dialect won't do at all, you know. They won't have it."

"Well, that's strange," said Barrymore; "they told me on the other side that they wouldn't have me on account of my beastly English dialect. What am I to do—give recitations on the Transatlantic steamers?"

GENERATE WARMTH ON TRUNK SEWER

Exchanges Over Terms of Northwest Sewer Leads to Withdrawals

SAANICH COUNCILLORS OPPOSE APPORTIONMENT

Esquimalt Delegates Accept Share of Cost Cheerfully; Differences Stated

At the northwest trunk sewer conference yesterday evening the accompanying resolution was approved, on the motion of Alderman Cuthbert. "That this meeting of the representatives of the three municipalities hereby agree to adopt as a basis of settlement the figures which have been submitted by the engineers of the municipalities in so far as they relate to the northwest sewer, and undertake to bring the subject before the respective councils."

Councillor Borden, of Saanich, seconded the motion, to which was added the supplementary resolution that the engineers should report further on the northeast sewer connection.

Alderman Humber, chairman of the sewer committee, presided.

Before the resolution was adopted there was a good deal of bickering between the city and Saanich representatives, so far as the payment for the cost was concerned, objection being taken both to the increased expense and the rejection of the old scheme of 1911, which was only to cost $15,000.

Two Members Withdraw.

Reeve Nicholson and Councillor Quick withdrew, declaring they had not come to be insulted, and the chairman had deliberately insulted them. Mayor Morley tried to induce them to return, but failed. He observed that the chairman had not shown courtesy to the Saanich speakers, in his overbearingness.

At last the motion was put, although Councillor McGregor declared that Esquimalt was getting the best of the deal.

City Engineer Rust reported that the engineers had met in conference to appraise the charge. The total cost was $365,222 of that share Saanich should bear $52,221 and Esquimalt $28,500, the engineers recommended.

However the only fair division was on a percentage basis, they held, under which the Saanich district would pay 34½ per cent., Esquimalt 28 per cent., and Victoria 77½ per cent. Esquimalt considered it should only pay the percentage to Hereward road, but he would point out that if Esquimalt had to build a sewer itself the cost would be $125,000.

Reeve Nicholson, of Saanich, referred to the undertaking by the city in 1911 to sewer not only the northwest, but the northeast district for $19,500. The council, however, would not enter into an agreement unless connection was given to the northeast trunk sewer as well. The by-law would be defeated certainly unless the city gave this undertaking.

Reeve Saunders considered that Esquimalt was not concerned with the northeast project, and held that the engineers' report must be final.

Councillor McGregor, of Saanich, supported his reeve, and said the by-law would be lost unless they accepted some arrangement.

Chairman Is Critical.

The chairman objected that the outside municipalities were attempting to dictate a policy. The city could go right ahead and build a sewer quite independently of Saanich and Esquimalt, and would do so. He blamed the two municipal councils for delays.

There was immediately strong objection taken by Esquimalt and Saanich councillors, particularly by Councillors Borden and Meshier.

Alderman Cuthbert poured oil on the troubled waters. He declared the only object of the council of Victoria was to help Saanich and to carry off its sewerage from the district. Saanich was not contributing either to the engineering expenses, or the cost of right-of-way. If Saanich was not satisfied it could put its system individually. With Esquimalt there was no difficulty of the character such as Saanich councillors had raised.

Reeve Nicholson contended that the terms should be known as to the northeast connection. At the previous meeting the Esquimalt district had offered to pay $44,000; now it was only $32,000. The chairman again declared that Saanich had delayed the advancement of the scheme.

The chairman would not allow Reeve Nicholson to differ with him.

Offers Information.

City Engineer Rust promised to supply information on the cost of the connection to the northeast sewer.

Councillor McGregor did at length get a hearing, and pointed out that a full scheme must be necessary. The district had a right to get sewerage through Victoria, just as Victoria brought water through that district.

Alderman Porter endorsed the attitude of the Saanich representatives, and believed they must drive the best bargain possible. The proposal made was in accordance with the agreement reached at the previous meeting.

The mayor expressed the opinion that the chairman had some cause to object to the delay. The procrastination had risen from various reasons, but it had caused much hardship through preventing the opening up of work. Saanich should have bound up the northeast sewer with the question earlier and should have thought of the issue. They could, however, settle satisfactorily the northwest sewer, and deal with Saanich separately. He hoped they would finally complete the main issue. He declared he would never allow the tentative agreement of 1911 to stand, as it was a mistake.

Change of Plans.

Alderman Cuthbert pointed out that the drainage area of 1911 was different from that of 1912. Saanich was not to blame for the delay, but the city.

Councillor Quick said the district must have an assurance that the northeast connection was to be made.

The mayor termed the councillor's observation as leading to a "back-handed bargain." The Saanich council looked at the question in a narrow-minded manner, he declared. He hoped they would quit that quibbling and come together on a fair pro rata settlement.

Councillor Meshier believed that the other municipalities were getting a good bargain.

Esquimalt Endorsement.

Reeve Saunders read a resolution approving the scheme, adopted at a meeting that day, and undertook to contribute fairly to the maintenance.

Councillor McAdam disclaimed any desire to see a hard bargain driven.

Councillor Williams objected to the allegation of delay on the part of the city. The observations were, in his opinion, quite uncalled for, and in that regard he criticized the chairman and Mayor Morley. The figures, he contended, were not final, although there was no reason why they could not be made absolute.

Mayor Morley, again speaking, believed Esquimalt should pay a larger sum, in view of the geographical situation of that municipality. The mayor assured the councillors that the terms would be fair to all.

The draft agreement was then presented, as prepared by the solicitors. It provided for maintenance of the sewer. Victoria and Saanich will maintain the pumping station at the Arm, in proportion to the amount of gallons used per district.

Another meeting is to be held after the councils have individually conferred on the subject.

The Delegates.

From the city there were present Alderman Humber, chairman; Mayor Morley, Alderman Cuthbert, Dilworth, Fullerton, McNeill, and Porter, City Engineer Rust, Assistant Engineer Foreman, and City Solicitor Robertson. From Esquimalt, Reeve Saunders, Councillors Anderson, McAdam, Meshier, and Wolfenden, Solicitor J. C. McIntosh, and Engineer W. A. Casey.

From Saanich, Reeve Nicholson, Councillors Borden, McGregor, Quick, and Williams, and Engineer Topp.

THOUGHT COMPANY MERGER OF BANKS

T. H. Horne Said J. R. Moore
Told Him This; Bankers'
Trust Case Proceeds

Three of the men who bought stock in the Bankers' Trust Corporation gave evidence yesterday afternoon at the assize court trial of F. C. Cook and J. O. Hearn on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the public in the flotation and operation of that company.

Thomas H. Horne, a real estate man, said that J. R. Moore, one of the salesmen, told him the Bankers' Trust was being formed by all the banks in Victoria as a branch of the Bankers' Trust of New York in order that the banks might invest their money in a wider field, the law preventing them from carrying on a real estate business. He understood that the company had a large tract of land near Victoria and was going to build bungalows. He learned that this was not true, he told George E. Powell, under cross-examination, when Cook made a speech at a shareholders' meeting, saying that the name was being objected to by many of the banks. Horne never parted with any cash, only notes.

Chris Wenger told of obtaining stock from Moore and Hearn in exchange for stock in jewelry, but said little of the representations made regarding the company. He was not cross-examined.

Noah Shakespeare, postmaster, told of being pressed by Moore to take stock, but stated that he refused some 20 or 30 times. Cook saw him, he said, and urged him to go in, but again he refused. Cook had told him of a 20 or 22 per cent dividend. He had also told the witness stated, of a committee of not more than 35 shareholders, each holding 150 shares, each member of which was to get 50 cents a share on all stock sold. It was on the chance of meeting his payments through this income that Mr. Shakespeare said he had taken the stock. Later he had learned from Hearn that there was no such committee, but this was after the company had burst up.

Under cross-examination Mr. Shakespeare said he had never held 150 shares, which was the requirement for membership of the committee, but that he was given to understand he was a member nevertheless. Mr. Shakespeare paid $500 cash for his stock. He had relied too much on what he had been told, he said. J. H. Baker and A. G. Sargison having told him the company was a good thing and that they were going in.

LAND POLICY IS NOT EFFECTIVE

Liberal Speakers Address a Large Gathering at Liberal Reform Club Social

SETTLER IS NOT ENCOURAGED TO COME

Government Has Failed to Assist Genuine Locators to Reach Land

A splendid gathering greeted the speakers at the Liberal Reform Club social last evening at the headquarters rooms.

The premises had been tastefully decorated, and P. W. Dempster, president, had a large assembly before him when the proceedings commenced. The speakers were two of the candidates for the city riding, H. C. Hall, and John Hart. R. L. Drury, who had just returned from the old country, also spoke of the ameliorating legislation of Lloyd George.

The proceedings throughout the gathering were most enjoyable, and during the evening refreshments were served.

Blames Government.

Mr. Hart made what was practically his maiden speech in political issues, and created an excellent impression.

He referred to the speech of the leader of the party a few evenings ago in Vancouver as showing conclusively what the government had done to embarrass the province, and the many things it had left undone. After dealing with matters of organization Mr. Hart took up the land question. He pointed out that under the Liberal regime a wave of prosperity had come across the continent, every one of the provinces experiencing it. "We," he said, "in this province had more reason to enjoy this wave in greater fullness than others on account of our great natural resources. We have been prosperous certainly, but to nothing like the extent that we should have done if our affairs were being administered in the interests of the people. If the government expects to get credit for this wave it should be prepared to hold itself responsible for the financial stringency and dull times we are now passing through."

A great part of the prosperity of this province of late years had been brought about only by the circulation of money through railway development, a development which would have come about in due course through competition and the natural desire of railway corporations to reach out for an outlet on the Pacific. So far as this was concerned the government might have brought it about much sooner and without committing the province to the enormous liabilities which it is now faced with.

Ordinarily these railways would have made accessible to the speculator and settler rich valleys in the interior. What were the facts? At some time or other as the surveys were being made, all the agricultural lands and timber lands along these lines had been staked by speculators, and for the man who wanted to work and assist in building up this province, it was impossible to secure a home-steed except by payment to the speculator of a price which was much greater. The wave of prosperity in British Columbia was thus seen to be only an artificial one, and not based on a solid foundation of concrete progress. That this was so was plainly evidenced in the falling off of home productions of dairy products, meats, fruits and vegetables, which were $5,000,000 less in value in 1912 than they were in 1911. This was a striking and significant comparison which should set every man thinking. For want of sympathetic consideration on the part of the government, farmers in the province were being forced out of business, and those who desired to settle here found no place for the sole of their foot.

The high cost of living, of which everyone complained, was caused in considerable measure so far as this province was concerned, by the lack of sympathy. This could be remedied by electing the Liberal party to power to enact a land policy built on the foundations of Liberalism, government by the people for the people. Mr. Hart thought that much could be done to aid the farmer by the loan of cheap money payable over a long term of years.

Failure of Ministers.

Mr. Hall, looking round at the large gathering, said the assertions formerly heard that there were no Liberals in Victoria could now be contradicted with confidence, as a meeting like that showed there were lots of Liberals and enthusiastic Liberals at that. After a complimentary reference to the efficient organization the party occupied, Mr. Hall said that even they as British Columbians were pioneering in their own province, a province of remarkable wealth and natural resources, requiring the most careful administration. The result of the actions and mistakes of the government of to-day were going to have a most adverse effect on the generation yet unborn.

Mr. Hall disclaimed any intention of making a set speech, but he furnished his hearers with some brief statements regarding lands, timber, fisheries and mines which involved some thinking. He pointed to the difficulty, if not impossibility, of enabling agricultural settlers to obtain land, thus depriving the province of the fruits of the soil, and a high class of settlement. Pre-emptors, he said, were discouraged from, and disengaged in British Columbia, and he cited a recent Prince Rupert case to show how settlers were forced to fork out to friends of the government before they could get anything done. The government had done everything to assist the speculator on his wild career of extravagance, in the handling of the province's resources.

The case of Denmark was instanced, whereby a wise land policy had stimulated the production of the country marvellously, and he remarked that that prosperous country was exporting tremendous quantities of produce abroad. In British Columbia, the richer country in resources, the province was importing half the food needed. The Australian land bank system was mentioned, and Mr. Hall promised to deal with it in some future occasion.

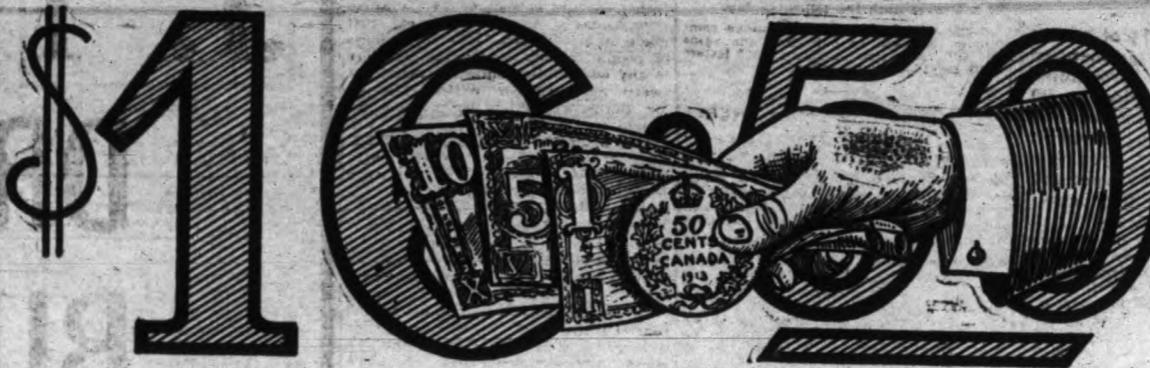

The value of a public utilities commission was dwelt upon, specially in such a case as the increase in rates of the British Columbia Electric railway. Had the province followed the good example of other provinces, and established such a commission, the company would have had to show cause for the increases made. Mr. Hall proved how the fishing industry had been allowed to fall into the hands of the Japanese, and how the timber of the province had been handed over to speculators.

Speaking of the Nanaimo strike, he said it was difficult even at this short distance to know what the real facts of the case were, but there was no doubt that if the governments, federal and provincial, had done their duty at the commencement of the trouble, the deplorable events of recent months would not have occurred. Mr. Hall was informed that large numbers of Chinese are replacing the white miners, there being one village of 2,000 in the Cumberland district, and the law was being flagrantly violated by the employment of these men underground.

It was the right of every Briton, he said, in this connection, to have freedom and justice, but this was not the case with the Nanaimo miners.

Explorers and Dr. Carl Lumholz, a Norwegian traveller of great experience and attainments, is the last to succumb to the spell. He is in London preparing for an expedition to the interior of Dutch New Guinea, and to a Daily Chronicle representative gave an outline of his plans.

IN WILDS OF PAPUA WITH DYAK BEARERS

Norwegian Traveller Plans to Traverse Unknown Interior of Island

Outside of the Antarctic regions and the uncharted areas of the North Polar basin which Mr. Stevenson is now trying to pierce, New Guinea or Papua is the largest unexplored region of the globe. The island, which in area is half as big again as Norway, is divided into three parts, under the dominion of Great Britain, Germany and Holland. But the occupation is more or less confined to the coast, and the interior remains practically a blank space on the map.

For that reason this tropical land exercises a peculiar fascination over explorers and Dr. Carl Lumholz, a Norwegian traveller of great experience and attainments, is the last to succumb to the spell. He is in London preparing for an expedition to the interior of Dutch New Guinea, and to a Daily Chronicle representative gave an outline of his plans.

Impenetrable Jungle.

"The country is a very difficult one to explore," he remarked. "For a considerable distance from the coast it is flat and covered with an impenetrable jungle. It is necessary, therefore, to reach the interior by way of the rivers. There is no game in the country, and everything in the way of food has to be carried. And as the only possible transport beyond rivers is by man power, one has to take a good many bearers. But the natives refuse to do any kind of hard work. Further, it is one of the wettest climates on earth, and for this reason not only instruments, but provisions also, have to be packed in water-tight cases, which adds to the difficulties of travelling.

Native Borneo Labor.

"I propose to get my native labor in Borneo, and I am starting for that place almost immediately. The Dyaks, who are commonly described as 'head hunters,' are excellent boatmen, and they are also very clever at building houses and houses. But they are very reluctant to leave their own country, even when you offer them big pay, and it will probably take me a couple of months to collect as many men as I want."

"I do not expect to reach New Guinea therefore before the beginning of next year, by which time I shall have been joined by two colleagues from Norway, who will take charge respectively of the geological and botanical branches of the expedition. I am mainly concerned in ethnology. We shall enter the country by the Digol river, starting from Merakue, one of the three Dutch garrison stations.

"The expedition," said Dr. Lumholz, "is purely a scientific one, and for that reason is supported, not only by the Norwegian Geographical Society, but by the British Royal Geographical Society, who have made us a grant; and also by the Dutch Society. I have also received assistance from America. But though our objects are scientific, it is quite possible that in the interior of New Guinea we may find gold or oil, perhaps both."

Though he is in the prime of life, it was more than a quarter of a century ago that Dr. Lumholz made his first journey into the unknown places of the earth, being sent out by the University of Christiania as a zoologist to collect new specimens in North Queensland. He travelled for nearly a year along the Herbert river, where no white man had penetrated before, and succeeded in finding several new mammals, including the tree kangaroo. During this time he lived with the blacks, sharing their food and paying them in the only currency they recognized—tobacco. He passed a very adventurous existence, and had some narrow escapes of his life. It raised the young explorer's interest, however, in the aboriginal races, and that interest he has never lost.

Knows Indian Lore.

After a lecturing tour in Europe and America, Dr. Lumholz—now seventeen years among the Indians of Mexico, engaged in exploration and study for the American Museum of Natural History. He returned to New York once or twice, but for three years he lived without a break among the Indians, with whose language and characteristics he is probably better acquainted

LOOK!

If you were told of a new discovery for the treatment of coughs, colds and bronchitis, as certain in its action on all chest troubles as anti-toxin is on diphtheria, or vaccination on small-pox, wouldn't you feel like giving it a trial? Especially if you could try it for fifty cents!

Peps is the discovery!

Peps are little tablets, neatly wrapped in air and germ-proof silver foil. They contain certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapour, and are at once breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the capillaries and tiny air sacs in the lungs.

In a word, while no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps fumes get there direct, and at once commences their work of healing.

Peps are entirely distinct from the old-fashioned liquid cough cure, which are merely swallowed into the stomach, and never reach the lungs. Peps treatment of coughs and colds is direct treatment.

If you have not yet tried Peps, cut out this article, write across it the name and date of this paper, and mail it (with 1c stamp to pay return postage) to Peps Co., Toronto. A free trial packet will then be sent you. All druggists and stores sell Peps at 50c. box.

'SYRUP OF FIGS' FOR CONSTIPATED CHILD

Delicious "Fruit Laxative" Can't Harm Stomach, Liver and Bowels

Every mother realizes, after giving her children "California Syrup of Figs," that this is their ideal laxative, because they love its pleasant taste, and it thoroughly cleanses the tender little stomach, liver and bowels without griping.

When cross, irritable, feverish or breath is bad, stomach sour, look at the tongue, mother! If coated, give a teaspoonful of this harmless "fruit laxative," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. When its little system is full of cold, throat sore, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, indigestion, colic—remember, a good "inside-cleaning" should always be the first treatment given.

Millions of mothers keep "California Syrup of Figs" handy; they know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child to-morrow. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups printed on the bottle. ### THE MISCHIEF OF R. L. BORDEN'S LAST APPEAL

From London News and Leader.

Letters for publication in Daily Times must be received at the Times office not later than the day before the day of issue. What is said in them may be held over until the following day.

While no particular anonymous communications will be published, the name and address of every writer of such letters must be given to the editor.

EMPLOYMENT OF FOREIGNERS.

To the Editor: You are to be congratulated on the stand you have taken on the question of the employment of foreigners to the exclusion of our own people, not only in the capacity of simple workmen, as evidence shows in the matter of civic works, but in such fat billets as in the case of the Stratford park. Everyone knows that as good men of our own people are to be had, then why employ aliens? It is to be hoped that the question will be fully probed. CANADIAN.

Victoria, B. C., October 9, 1913.

WHO IS GUILTY OF MISREPRESENTATION?

To the Editor.—A letter of mine to the Times having been incidentally referred to by both the Times and Colonist, in their present controversy, I take up arms without party bias on behalf of the Times, upon reading in the Colonist the most outrageous accusation that one paper could make against another, short of crime. The Colonist states editorially that the Times "is in the habit of writing letters to itself" (anonymous). That would indeed be "rather a mean piece of business," as the Colonist says, if it were true. But it is not true, and no one in Victoria knows that to be a fact better than I do.

In addition to the challenge issued in the Colonist this morning, the public might be interested to know if your contemporary can go further and challenge all creation to prove it was the Colonist (not Times) that wrote a "letter to itself," on a former occasion over a borrowed signature? I have read somewhere distinct circumstantial proof to that effect, that was not denied by the Colonist.

GROUCHER.

DREADNOUGHTS ON THE BRAIN.

"In this wild controversy about Canada's actions on the naval question—it is amusing to note how we lost sight of our own country in our Imperialistic enthusiasm. To the minds of most people the hand of the Colonist is behind the scenes, instead of giving funds and encouragement to our neglected militia people seem to have 'Dreadnoughts on the brain.'"

There is shouting from the cities. Which is echoed through the land, By a certain class of people. Who will never understand; Hysterical misgivings, and other views, Praising what is hurtful.

What they abuse.

So I'll try to note the persons, If you bear with my refrain, Who at present are afflicted With dreadnoughts on the brain.

There are those who cite New Zealand And Australia, being free, As models to the nation; For as islands in the sea, This apparent when the foeman comes To ravish, loot and slaughter;

That the people may expect to win To appear throughout the water.

So those who quote comparisons With islands in the main, Should be pitied when affected With dreadnoughts on the brain.

You'll find the fiercest advocates For ironclads of course,

Mongot those who jeer and cavil At our own military force;

Those who believe in advocates Of arbitration's charms,

And the future Christian nations Wh'll discard resort to arms.

Armed men parading,

Men such as people quite insane,

And they have got it badly—

Dreadnoughts on the brain.

There's the oily politician,

Who would cut expenses down,

Obliterate militia,

In the country, in the town;

If he's in the opposition.

You can hear him note,

Some day war or the other,

Laying pipes to catch a vote,

To prove the members opposite Are worthless and name,

Gives him heavy spasms

Of dreadnoughts on the brain.

The strong men, Kipling says, who cheer

When striplings lead the way,

Who, smoking like mad, have Left the home to begin to play,

And blow about Canadas.

Who fight in foreign lands,

Who never pulled a trigger,

Had a weak heart in their hands;

The three of us are service,

Give so much against the grain,

That of course they get it badly—

Dreadnoughts on the brain.

Our wealthy lords of labor,

In their warehouses and mills,

Who refuse to their employees

Time for musketry and drills;

The heads of labor unions, too,

Make speeches,

"We need a militia force

No enemy in sight."

Is the reason always given,

And the gist of their refrain,

So they, too, join the people.

Having dreadnoughts on the brain.

All the sweet old maiden ladies

Clip in, too, at a rule,

Who have a whole bunch of children

Are fond of drilling in the school;

Who correspond with Colonel Hughes,

Most ardently complaining,

When a glass of beer's detected

With a solemn, stern training,

With a stern, strict discipline, with fighting.

They are shouting might and main,

But all the same are troubled

With dreadnoughts on the brain.

There are all the dear old Colonels

Long retired, thin or stout,

Who hobble round the city

With the rheumatic or gout,

Quite bereft of long knowledge

So to meet at night to meet,

So with views Imperialistic.

Buttonhol' you on the street;

And are most enthusiastic;

When their toes begin to pain;

The poor old chaps have got it—

Dreadnoughts on the brain.

There's the latest young remittance man,

Arrived from overseas,

The sweetest thing at tea,

With the dearest thing at tea,

With the knowledge of a "Dudu,"

Like a patient gramophone.

He talks about the Germans,

With many melancholy tones,

And it's—"Mr. Borden's millions."

He shouts for, might and main,

Another bright addition

To dreadnoughts on the brain.

ATHLETICS LEAD HITTERS OF GIANTS

New York Club Has Small Margin in Fielding; World's Series Averages to Date

Athletics are showing the way in hitting and pitching to date in the world's series, while the Giants still have a narrow margin in the fielding, the New York club having one "boot" less than the American league champions. Collins, Baker and Oldring are the leading swatmuths for the Athletics, while Fletcher and McLean are the only Giants who are showing any semblance of form with the willow. Of the regulars, Herzog, the sensation of last year's Boston series, has yet to get a hit.

New York has used four twirlers in the games to date, while Connie Mack has started and finished the three games with a single twirler for each contest.

RACES LEAVE EFFECT ON PEOPLE OF CITY

Three Well-Defined Classes in the Crowds at Willows

ONLY FEW HORSES OWNED IN VICTORIA

Activities at Course Cannot Be Classed as Sport; Mad Destroya Test

With to-morrow the close of the three weeks' racing at the Willows track bridge to an end, the racing engagement carried out in direct contravention of the Miller Bill, and as the event comes to a conclusion, public sentiment grows that the objections of civic bodies and other expressions of organized public opinion are well taken in resisting its continuance over a period thrice that permitted by law.

The length of the engagement is made sufficiently protracted to encourage the large outside owners to participate before the flat season ends, as it would be impossible to collect 500 horses for a few days' meeting at the time of the exhibition. As the local stables are sparsely represented there is essentially an outsiders' meeting held for the purpose of promoting certain individual interests by taking advantage of a lease which the Victoria Country club has of the ground for a term of years.

The conditions which are prevailing at the Willows' track, with its mud bottom deep, prevent a fair test of speed, an objectionable feature additional to the evils attendant on every race meeting which attracts undesirable. After the energies of the jockeys in urging the horses round the course several times a day the course is in a rotten condition, and betting becomes wagering on the strength of the animals who can, by sheer force, maintain their pace in the mud, which is kicked high in each struggle.

The attendance at the Willows is also of interest to the observer. It may be divided into three classes. There is the grand-stand crowd, which comes by automobile and does a little betting, but is chiefly attracted by the desire of idleness relieved from the boredom of idleness which affects so many people of leisure, and by the false exhilaration of a little excitement about the racing.

Then around the paddock and the machines is another class, the street car travelling crowd, who are subdivided into two broad sections. These are the professionals and the amateurs. They are as distinct types as labelled as such. The professional is there to make money and make it quickly by any means which will keep him out of the clutches of the police. He knows the horses, their records, their home stables, and their chances, while keeping up an acquaintance with the jockey who rides and the groom who attends the horse. If he is to take advantage of that information he must bring to bear all the cunning of the craft and know when to press home an advantage.

Then there is the amateur, the man who thinks of making a little and is prepared to back his skill or the tip of some pseudo-professional adviser in the hope of success. To some the parimutuel machines are a novelty, whose value must be tested. An occasional success encourages further experiments.

It is, however, not the race itself, but the after effects in which the sordid tone of the course is focused. The booths are a mass of struggling humanity, flushed with excitement, either cheered by success or depressed by failure, but all anxious to add to their gains

E. L. NEWCOMBE IS A CLEVER LAWYER

Mon. C. J. Doherty's Deputy is the Highest-Paid Deputy Minister in Canada

(By Francis A. Carman.)

On that morning a few weeks ago when the plan was laid which put Harry Thaw back on American soil, where he belonged, no doubt one of the chief plotters of the coup was Edmund Leslie Newcombe, C. M. G., deputy minister of justice. Hon. C. J. Doherty and Hon. Arthur Meighen are fine lawyers; but the permanent head of the department of justice is not outclassed in their company. His opinion is always listened to with respect, whenever a difficult legal question is up for discussion. He had made a name before he entered the government service, twenty years since, and he has added to his laurels on many occasions in the interval. So that, without detracting anything from his political chieftain, there is little doubt that he had a considerable hand in ridding the Dominion of the "undesirable" Thaw.

Edmund Leslie Newcombe is a lawyer in every inch of his nearly six feet. When one sees him pleading a case before the supreme court there is a distinct feeling of surprise and disappointment that he does not wear the wig of dignity so dear to the English barrister. He is as dignified as Mr. Tulkington, the trusted family lawyer and guardian of the Dedlocks in Bleak House. He must appear in quite his right element when he dons wig and gown before the privy council in old London.

Comes From the East.

Like many another wise man, the permanent head of the federal legal department comes from the East. He was born in Cornwallis, Nova Scotia, on February 17, 1853, so that he is now just a little beyond the half-century. He was educated at Dalhousie College—one of the oldest colleges of the Dominion—and at Halifax University, and was called to the bar at the age of twenty-four. For the next ten years he practised his profession in Halifax, winning a high place among the lawyers of his native province. When only twenty-eight he was made a governor of his old college, and later lectured to her students on insurance law. The man who picked him out for the Dominion service was Sir John Thompson, himself one of the greatest masters of the law Canada has ever produced. Subsequent years have shown that Thompson knew men as well as law.

One of the special problems which the new deputy attacked was the tangled skein of the law in regard to the publishing of books. The relations on this subject are between the Dominion and the Imperial parliament are highly involved, and have been the subject of much negotiations—negotiations which have sometimes been rather bitter and which have been marked by the disallowance of Canadian laws by the Imperial authorities. Two years after he came to Ottawa Mr. Newcombe was sent as the representative of Canada to confer with the Imperial government on this subject. Afterwards there were many conferences, and in them the deputy minister usually had a part. The problem was settled shortly after the Laurier government went out of office, but the solution has never yet been put into statutory form.

Revising the Statutes.

Another outstanding service which Mr. Newcombe has been able to perform for the country was in connection with the last revision and consolidation of the Dominion statutes. For four years he and his seven fellow-commissioners were at work. They had before them the task of consolidating all the laws passed by the Dominion parliament from the previous revision in 1886, and when they had finished their work was put in three compact volumes—the index to it alone made a fourth volume. Until this work was done lawyers had to search through all the acts of each year to find the laws; now the compendium of 1886, enacted into law by the Dominion parliament, is the final source. This is a great saving to the lawyers and their clients, for if the lawyers had to spend more time on a case, one may be sure the client would pay the bill.

The "D.M.J." to describe him by his title, is a member of a couple of clubs, and occasionally goes into the wilds on hunting trip. But really he appears to find his amusement as well as his labor in law. As a reward for this he is the highest paid deputy minister in the service. He now draws $10,000 a year, while the regular salary of deputies is only half that. In addition he is also paid for legal services before the courts. For example, he was paid $1,000 and $2,125 respectively for two trips made to England in 1911; a good part of this would, of course, be for expenses. The explanation of the high pay is that it has been necessary to retain a efficient lawyer in the service of the government. Even at that his remuneration is moderate for a first-class lawyer. Incidentally one may remark that the principle is one that will have to be applied in other departments, if the people are to retain the services of leaders in the various vocations.

THREAD MAGNATE DEAD.

Director of Celebrated Paisley Firm Coats Passes Away—A Benefactor.

Mr. Peter Coats, a director of the enormous thread business begun in a small way by James Coats, a Paisley weaver, in 1824, passed away at Whittington-on-Wye, Herefordshire, in his seventy-fourth year.

Mr. Coats was well-known for his many philanthropic gifts to Paisley. Among them were the gift of over £15,000 to the Royal Alexandra Infirmary, the erection of a nurses' home, the gift of a new wing to the local art gallery and the building of the beautiful Walneuch church for the United Free church. Mr. Coats, who was unmarried, received the freedom of the burgh four years ago.

James Coats, the founder of the firm, began with a small factory in his own garden. His venture, however, prospered, and under the management of his sons, Peter and Thomas, the business flourished exceedingly. It was largely by the absorption of rival firms that the Coats family obtained their colossal success in thread manufacture. Rivalry was finally eliminated by the formation of a combine in August, 1896, comprising the businesses of Coats, Clark, Jonas Brook & Brothers, and James Chadwick & Brothers, Ltd. In the first year the combination made profits of 20 per cent., a figure which during the next year rose to 30 per cent., while in 1888-9 and 1897-99 bonuses of 10 and 20 per cent. respectively were declared.

In 1905 the capitalized business approximated to £46,000,000. The Coats factories cover many acres at Paisley, and there are branch establishments in the United States, and in almost every European country.

Left £2,000,000, and No Will.

Three other members of the great firm have pre-deceased Mr. Peter Coats within the past eighteen months, and in each case very large fortunes have been left. The net estates were valued as follows:

Mr. James Coats, Jr., of Ferguslie, Paisley ..... £1,964,745
Mr. Archibald Coats, of Woodside, Paisley ..... 1,365,132
Sir James Coats, Bt., of Auchendrane, Ayrshire ..... 1,773,870

Mr. James Coats, Jr., died intestate and a bachelor on March 22, 1912, at the age of seventy-two. His fortune is believed to be the largest ever left by a man without making a will. During his lifetime Mr. James Coats had given away large sums to charities. Mr. Archibald Coats, chairman of J. & P. Coats, Ltd., died on May 12, 1912. The sums paid in death duties on the two estates amounted to £490,000.

Sir James Coats, head of the family, died, in his seventy-ninth year, on January 20 of this year. The amount of his fortune, recorded above, is not inclusive of all his property, particulars of which had not been fully ascertained when the inventory of his estate was published. The duty paid on the inventory lodged amounted in Mar's last to £267,414.

All four late members of the firm belonged to the third generation of owners of the business, and survivors of this generation are the late Mr. Peter Coats's cousins, Sir Thomas Glen-Coats, Bart., of Ferguslie Park (whose daughter has just married Major Parsons, chief constable of the Metropolitan Police), and Mr. George Coats, of Forest of Glen Tanar, each of whom is a director of the firm.

MANNERS.

Sir William Eden, Bart., in the Saturday Review, gives some interesting examples of manners—old and new.

I had a fine specimen of the Jack-in-office (he says), at a place called Merced, in California, where the man behind the bar, being appealed to for sympathy for a filthy bed, replied: "Well"—or "Wall" he said—"I guess sometimes you will get clean sheets or sometimes you will get dirty sheets wherever you go."

If anyone wants confirmation of such a scur, let him read Robert Louis Stevenson's "Across the Plains," wherein he will see—in account of a dinner at the Station when a humble person asked his neighbor to pass the mustard.

"Pass the mustard! Pass hell!" was the reply. "There is a gentleman here who is paid for that service."

I quote from memory. But this reminds me of another story, which is not a propo, but is rather amusing. Scene: A dining-room-table d'hôte at a hydrostatic establishment at Harrogate. ### BRITAIN SEEKS TO BUY INVENTION IS AFTER EXCLUSIVE RIGHTS TO APPARATUS

That Will Explode Submarine Mines by Infra-Red Rays; Inventor Replies to Critics

Paris, Oct. 10.—Excelsior prints a report stating that the British Admiralty has offered to enter into an agreement with M. Ullvi for the exclusive rights to his submarine mine exploding invention, which has enjoyed world-wide publicity without any of its actual details being revealed. It appears that the Lieutenant commanding the yacht Lady Henriette, a French capital placed at the disposal of the young engineer for his experiments, is an officer of the British navy, and it was through this officer's report that negotiations were begun between the Admiralty and the inventor.

M. Ullvi left Paris for London some days ago, but before his departure he consented to throw some light on his invention in an interview printed in Excelsior.

"The experiments which I have been carrying out off the port of Havre," said the young inventor, "have been correctly reported by some and adversely criticised by others, merely because I was not in a position at the time to give out a detailed statement explaining my discovery and the result of my efforts. It should, however, be readily understood that I am seeking to avoid influencing public opinion before the official report of the military experts who attended my experiments has been presented. But if I am unable even at the present time to discuss my invention in detail I may at least distinguish between error and truth and give a general outline of the dream I have dreamed and the means I have employed to transform it into reality.

"For this it will be necessary to explain a few general principles which form the basis of my work. It is generally admitted that all physical phenomena—heat, light, magnetism, electricity, acoustics—are phenomena of motion. These motions are constituted by ether waves which are infinite, as they vary not only in accordance with the speed of their propagation through space, but also according to the length of the waves and the frequency of the vibrations. They are practically as infinite as the series of numerals.

Found New Infra-red Rays.

"Some of these waves are well known, such as light waves, beginning with red, the rays of which are longer and less frequent, up to violet, with shorter and more frequent rays. Scientists have extended this knowledge to include the 'ultra-violet,' with shorter rays than violet, and the 'infra-red' with longer rays than red.

"All these waves, which affect our senses in a different manner according to the frequency of their vibrations, obey one law: the shorter the waves the more frequent the vibrations. And all are reflected and refracted in the same manner as light. It should, however, be stated that this theory is extremely difficult to establish when the waves are of great length, as reflecting surfaces must be found in ever increasing sizes. I endeavored to ascertain the limit in which a satisfactory reflection could be obtained and for that reason only comparatively short waves were used, and in this manner I succeeded in producing infra-red waves measuring about six hundredths of a millimeter.

"The object, however, was not to obtain phenomena of light, but of electrical resonance. I was therefore seeking to increase the power of instruments already known in order to obtain a more complete electrical resonance. It is an established fact that every thing capable of producing a given note will vibrate whenever that note is produced by any instrument at a certain distance. A similar result is obtained in electricity. It follows that if waves are sent out from an instrument located at a certain distance from a body capable of producing electrical waves the body will vibrate together with the instrument at the time when the waves are sent out.

Used Two Instruments

"I have therefore invented two different instruments: one enabling me to discover the exact location and the electro-magnetic capacity of the body or mine and the other intended to produce the short waves which will bring about the vibration, and, consequently, the explosion. I need not explain why it is impossible for me to give any detailed description of the two instruments at the present time. Suffice it to say that the first is a sort of 'radiogoniometer' slightly modified. The second instrument, with which I produce the short waves described above, consists of a series of condensers, varying in shape and size according to the use to which they are intended.

"Finally—in order to obtain cylindrical waves I use a projector which insures a maximum of effect with a minimum of loss of power. Now with these instruments at hand my method is simple. The first is used to discover an object responding to its vibration and with the second I determine the exact location of this object and its electro-magnetic capacity. All that is needed now is to produce the 'infra-red' rays under the influence of which the metallic part will produce sparks which will explode whatever explosives may be contained therein. This is explained by the fact that when infra-red rays penetrate a metallic object their frequency decreases and gradually becomes the same as that of electrical waves.

Replies to Objections

"One of the chief objections advanced by my critics concerns the projector which, they argue, must be affected before anything else by the infra-red rays. But the answer to this is simple: the reflecting surface of the projector is not made of steel but of wood, and although the reflection obtained is not complete, it is sufficient for the purpose.

"Another objection is based upon the fact that sea water was found in the torpedoes after their explosion and it has been said that this water was the real cause of the explosion, thus making it appear that a mere coincidence was responsible for the success of my experiments. It would indeed be a marvellous coincidence which could cause the explosion of every torpedo at which my aim was directed while having no effect upon all the other surrounding mines. On the other hand, the sea water found in the torpedoes penetrated after the explosion when the top had been blown off. A proof of this is found in the fact that after whatever was left of the torpedo had remained aboard our ship several days the water was still noticeable, whereas if the water had penetrated through the sides or the bottom it would have filtered out in the same manner.

"However, be that as it may, my experiments have been concluded and I am now confidently awaiting the report of the officers who witnessed them."

London, Oct. 7.—An exhibition on wheels is the latest project for bringing British manufactures before the people of Canada. It is proposed to buy a train, stock it with the products of this country, and send it on an almost continuous run, under suitable charge, in the great Dominion cities.

The lead in the matter is being taken by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in London, which is in communication with the Chambers of Commerce of 18 of the principal manufacturing cities in the United Kingdom.

The idea is that groups of manufacturers in these cities should combine to purchase the train, the man-

All Towns to Be Visited.

A general manager would be put in charge of the train, and representatives of each city taking part in the enterprise would also be on board. In addition, of course, the train would carry an office staff. It is calculated that the annual cost, after providing for the extinction of the capital expenditure and including all fitting, running, maintenance, administration, and other charges, salaries and wages, would not work out at much more than £2,500 per car.

Marked Trade Expansion.

A Daily News representative was informed at the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in London that the basis of an arrangement would most probably be arrived at with the Canadian railways, and one of the officials of the Canadian Pacific stated that his company were prepared to do their best for the enterprise. A similar movement was also contemplated for fish manufacturers exclusively, but was dropped owing to the insufficient support it met with.

It may be remembered that the Canadian Pacific railway last year took over 100 British manufacturers to Canada. As a result some of them have established branch houses there, and started business connections. A number of the principals are carrying the matter a step further by going out to Canada this year.

His Incitement of Hot-Heads
Looked Upon With Disfavor
His "Army" Will Melt Away

Describing Sir Edward Carson's blood and thunder campaign, a correspondent of the London Chronicle, writing from Clifden (Connemara), says:—

The week which opens to-morrow (Monday) is to be a very important one in the history of the Carsonian campaign. It is to see completed Ulster's plans for a provisional government in the event of the Home Rule Bill becoming law. There will be numerous gatherings, and the eventual period will conclude on Saturday with a great demonstration and review of loyalist volunteers at Belfast.

It is extremely difficult here in the midst of Ulster to invest the doings and happenings of the Carsonians with those vivid colors in which they are presented to English readers by Tory journals. Let me endeavor after a journey through the north to present the position in its true perspective and to point out clearly the extreme danger of allowing the situation to develop along such perilous lines. Take, in the first place, the Carsonian army. It is a vastly different affair than that which in in England it is generally imagined to be. When there is a demonstration or review the whole force of Orange lodges goes to swell the so-called volunteer army. But just as Sir Edward Carson has never thought fit to be initiated into membership of the order a very large proportion of members of Orange lodges has no intention of taking the field, and will most certainly be absent from the ranks of the army should General Richardson sound the rallying cry of which he spoke a few days ago.

That is the first section of Sir Edward Carson's forces. The second consists of those middle-class citizens whom the Tory journals rightly describe as determined-looking and in earnest. They certainly are determined-looking, but their earnestness will stop short of using firearms. Their belief is that they may be able with muddle-headed and dangerous antics in which Sir E. Carson, his colleagues and followers are indulging. Here, say business men practically unanimous, are leaders of the party which has long boasted that it is the pillar of law and order openly stirring up rebellion against authority, preaching contempt for law except it be of their own making. Apart from the ultimate results of this particular campaign, the advocacy of disregard and disrespect for law cannot but give enormous encouragement to law-breaking in general, and what is true of the business world of Ulster is also true of the farmers.

It cannot but impress impartial observers at loyalist demonstrations that those sturdy Northern farmers, once a notable feature of the anti-Home Rule gatherings, are absent from the demonstrations of to-day. This was very evident at Dromore the other day. Dromore, not a score of miles from Belfast, is a strong Unionist centre, but it could only muster scarcely a couple of thousand volunteers, and to arrive at that number Orangemen who would have put in an appearance for any Unionist reason had to be counted. It cannot be wondered at that F. E. Smith felt compelled to launch bitter invective against those who were not in the so-called loyal army in Ulster. Then it is only too clear that Sir Edward Carson is leading a forlorn hope. His demonstrators may protest, parade for hours and display enthusiasm, but the higher mind of Ulster will not countenance the use of force against the law of the land.

The Carsonian army will melt away at General Richardson's call to arms, if he is ever mad enough to send it forth. The rioting roughs will remain, and in the streets of Belfast and elsewhere some lives will be lost.

The British public will not be slow to know where to put the blame for any tragedy which may happen. For the moment Ireland, its capital hunger-stricken and despairing in the throes of a great labor dispute, is much more concerned with the example of lawlessness which the Carsonian campaign is setting and its effects in the future than with what it is sure will be the comparatively insignificant immediate results in the streets of a few northern towns.

Throughout the length and breadth of the country the feeling is growing that the time has come for action on the part of the government to close down Sir Edward Carson's reckless and perilous campaign.

The value of any paper as an advertising medium is the circulation multiplied by the purchasing power per subscriber, then divided by the rate. The reasonable advertising rates and good circulation of The Times are strong points in its favor, but the unusually high purchasing power per subscriber makes it one of the very best advertising mediums obtainable.

TO-DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

Upon this day, forty-nine years ago, the Quebec Conference met in the capital of old Canada, to draw up a plan for Confederation to be submitted to the several legislatures. There were 52 delegates in all, including two from Newfoundland, the colony which to the present time has remained aloof from its sister-provinces. Of these twelve were members of the coalition ministry of United Canada; whilst the remainder represented the opposition, as well as the government of some of the other colonies interested. No reporters were admitted to hear the deliberations, but it is told that the first resolution was passed unanimously. It ran as follows: "Resolved, that the best interests and present and future prosperity of British North America will be promoted by a federal union under the Crown of Great Britain, provided such a union can be effected on principles just to the several provinces." It proved exceedingly difficult to formulate a scheme upon which the representatives of all the provinces could agree, but by means of many compromises, a plan of Confederation was at last devised, leaving to each province control of its local affairs and creating a central government with jurisdiction in matters concerning all or several of the provinces. Sir Etienne Paschal Tache, the able and patriotic French-Canadian, presided over the conference. Others present were: John A. Macdonald, George Etienne Carter, George Brown, Alexander Tiloch Galt, Thomas D'Arcy McGee, William McDougall, Alexander Campbell, Oliver Mowat, James Cockburn, Hector Louis Langevin and Jean C. Chapais. Nova Scotia had Charles Tupper, Jonathan McCully, W. A. Henry, R. B. Dickey and A. G. Archibald. From New Brunswick came Samuel Leonard Tilley, Charles Fisher, J. M. Johnson, Peter Mitchell, E. B. Chandler, W. H. Steeves and John Hamilton Gray. Edward Palmer, Col. Gray, George Coles, W. H. Pope, Edward Whelan, A. A. Macdonald and T. H. Haviland acted for Prince Edward Island. Newfoundland sent two delegates, Ambrose Shea and F. B. T. Carter.

October 10 is the birthday of William Kendrick Hatt, the distinguished civil engineer, at Fredericton, N. B., 1888. On this date in 1911 the ministry headed by Hon. Robert Laird Borden was sworn into office.

The cardinal speaks English, Spanish, French, German, Italian and Latin. He is fond of golf and other outdoor sports, and, strange to say, is a baseball "fan." He knows the names and records of all the leading big league players, and follows the pennant races with great interest. He became interested in baseball through Bishop Kennedy of the American college.

Cardinal Merry del Val was responsible for the introduction of electric lights, telephones, elevators, typewriters, and other modern improvements into the Vatican. His iron-handed diplomacy has been widely criticised, and he has been accused of many blunders, but he still holds the entire confidence of the pope and other church leaders.

Sir Rufus Daniel Isaacs, attorney-general of Great Britain and leader of the English bar, will pass his fifty-third milestone to-day. He was the son of a Jewish merchant in London, and in his youth ran away to sea to escape going to Cambridge, working as a common sailor. Returning to London, he failed as a broker, adopted the legal profession, and speedily built up the largest practice of any barrister in England. It is expected that he will become Lord Chief Justice upon the retirement of Lord Alverstone.

THINKS VICTORIA HAS MANY ADVANTAGES

R. L. Drury, Returned From England, Would Have City Further Beautify Streets

Returning to Victoria after several months' absence in England and visiting other countries of Europe, R. L. Drury, who with his wife and family arrived back in the city on Tuesday, expressed himself this morning to a Times representative as more than ever pleased with the wonderful natural advantages of the capital of British Columbia.

"I was much impressed," he said, "on going to other cities in England noted for their attractiveness and beauty as residential towns and tourist resorts, to find how very favorably Victoria compared with these. Considering our city from that point of view there is absolutely no comparison; from the standpoint of scenic beauty and of geographical situation, as well as of climate, she is conspicuously superior. When I saw this I began to ask myself why it was that we were here in Victoria had not more visitors? It brought me at once to the conclusion that it was because our city was not so well kept. The cities which I visited all over England which are noted as pleasure resorts were wonderful in this respect; the roads leading to them were good; there were trees and parks; and the bands played in the parks morning, afternoon and evening, as if it were a public holiday."

"When I meet people here," continued Mr. Drury, "who tell me that our city is moving ahead too fast, and that we should call a halt in our street improvements, I am inclined to dispute with them about it. We must go ahead with it. Of course, it must be done economically and judiciously—but so much of the future of the city depends on it that it should not be neglected. At Tunbridge Wells, Leamington, Brighton and other cities that we visited, so much attention had been lavished on these things. The parks and public gardens had such beautiful flowers, and bands playing all the time. We were particularly amazed at Brighton, which, save that it has better bathing, cannot compare with Victoria in respect to natural features. Besides, the climate here outrivaled any that we experienced in any of the places we visited."

Following up the subject to its practical conclusion, Mr. Drury suggested that the citizens of Victoria should get together before their next municipal government was formed and outline some plan for making the city beautiful. The policy of the capital, he said, should be to keep on working at the streets until they were all in good shape. It would be only through such means that the citizens could hope to continue to draw streams of tourists here annually.

Speaking of the interest which was being taken in Victoria by people in the eastern provinces, Mr. Drury said that he had found there that many people were looking forward to the time when they could retire from business altogether and could come out to this city to spend the remainder of their days.

With respect to the political situation in England, Mr. Drury said he had found that the interest of the people there was much more centered in domestic than foreign politics. It was only among a very small sect, principally military circles, that he heard any talk of German war scares. The Church Disestablishment Bill, the Home Rule question and the land problem were the great matters of the hour with the vast mass of citizens.

Everywhere he went he was impressed with the industrial activity. Factories were all working steadily, and he noticed very few who appeared to belong to the ranks of the unemployed. He had, however, talked with all sorts of people, farm laborers, factory hands, men in the street, and had been astonished to learn what small wages these men got for their work. Compared with the cost of living they were quite disproportionately low—much lower, proportionately, than any that were paid in this country. Then, too, the hours of labor were so long. At Birmingham, he recalled, he had questioned some of the men about the type of skilled labor which was the most highly paid. "Bricklayers," he said, "were told, 'How much do they get?'" he had asked. "Sevenpence an hour," he was told. This was the highest wage graded down from this.

For some weeks during his absence Mr. Drury was in London, where he met a number of the leading financiers, and found that there were large amounts of money coming out to this country on mortgage, owing to the high rates of interest which were given, which made them less keen to invest in municipal securities. Englishmen seemed to have come to the conclusion that their investments were absolutely safe in Canada, and he had been in correspondence with several men who wanted him to organize a movement in that direction. All seemed anxious for good-sized loans.

Another of his observations is interesting in view of the board of the United States that they have set a standard of business organization for the whole world. In some of the big stores of London he had found a peculiar indifference or ignorance of system and business methods. After thinking about it he came to the conclusion that the system in this country had been made necessary owing to the higher wages which were paid, and that therefore greater profits were necessary.

Before concluding their tour Mr. and Mrs. Drury went up to Scotland, where they visited Edinburgh, and took a motor drive from there to Melrose, this being in mid-August when the hills were glorious with heather. They also went down to Ayr, and drove out as far as Burns' cottage, and some of the scenes of "Tam o' Shanter." On the continent they had frequent visits to Paris, Belgium, Brussels and Antwerp, all of which they enjoyed thoroughly.

"I see that the new British ambassador's name is Spring-Rice," said Drury.

"Well, what of it?" growled old Moneybags. "What interests me is September wheat."

"The blowing up of the last obstruction at the Gamboa dike to-day will mark the completion of the greatest undertaking in the world and the symbol of the greatest era of development this coast has ever experienced," said Arthur Blackiston, of Manhattan, the chief seaport of Mexico on the Pacific coast, this morning. Mr. Blackiston is president of the Southwest Development Company, of California, and is interested in the British Columbia-Mexico Company, which has its offices in this city.

Considering our city from that point of view there is absolutely no comparison; from the standpoint of scenic beauty and of geographical situation, as well as of climate, she is conspicuously superior. ### SUPPORTS HIS VIEW

Minister of Public Works Telegraphs Board of Trade; Substitutes Stone and Cement

When informed of Mr. Justice Gregory's remarks on the presentment of the grand jury at assizes this morning on the city jail, Mayor Morley said he welcomed the attitude of the judge, as it would strengthen his hand in the position he had always taken.

"If the council had authorized the expenditure of the $5,000 or $6,000 on the repairs which the committees proposed, and for which the building inspector drew plans, by now the improvements could have been carried out," he said.

"It is impossible to have the new jail constructed, even if the total issue from the bonds be available, in less than a year. Meanwhile there are no plans prepared for anything like an adequate building, and the improvements I suggested had been effected, the jail would have been sanitary for another five years.

"Finding that the council was obstructive after the last division in which the council paired five-all, I approached Alderman Dilworth and the chief of police on the subject, but did not get encouragement towards referring the subject back for reconsideration by the council. Since then it has been allowed to drop. My policy now is consistent with my policy of 1911—executing temporary repairs till the building can be constructed along right lines."

Unsolved Workings of Tariff Bill, Currency, Trade and Trust Agitation Rule

LINGERING POSITION IN CORONATION WITH ABSENCE OF BIDS

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.)
New York, Oct. 19.—Foreign liquidation of this side's securities gave the stock market a weekly appearance with very little to encourage support. Speculative selling was pronounced to a marked degree but it can be said that the sharper decline early elicited some moderate support.

The unsolved workings of the new tariff bill, currency discussion, trade contraction, prospective anti-trust legislation and hardening tendency in money rates are the factors commanding most attention at the present time.

Unless news from Washington becomes more assuring and signifies a greater intention on the part of the administration to blend its actions in shaping new legislation more conservatively, uneasiness in the stock market will remain.

The government crop report yesterday was about as expected and exerted no important influence.

AMERICAN METHODS
IN BRITISH POLITICS

Newcomer States Old Country Politics Are Becoming Simply a Grabbing for Power

"I am strongly of the opinion that Home Rule will go through," said Hugh B. Clarke, a well known British manufacturer and descendant of the great John Bright, this morning to the Times.

"I come of a great Liberal family and we have no doubt at all about the issue," he continued.

Mr. Clarke is a member of the largest boot and shoe manufacturing firms in Great Britain, C. & J. Clarke, whose factories in Somerset are surrounded by the dwellings of their employees in much the same way as Port Sunlight has grown up around the works of Lever Brothers. He is not in the West on business though he came to New York for that purpose. His present stay in the West is, however, purely one of vacation, and according to his statement he is thoroughly enjoying the experience.

Mr. Clarke is of the opinion that British politics are becoming more and more infected with American methods. He says:

"Take the present instance of the Unionists in Ulster. They are working their bluff there simply in order to get the sympathies of a further portion of the people. Politics seems to be becoming simply a game in which the opposing parties will do anything to get into power. But Home Rule will go through in spite of everything, though I do not think it will do so in its present form. It may have to be modified."

Mr. Clarke states that his trip through the Rockies was to him in the nature of a sensation. He has travelled about the world a good deal on pleasure and business, but he avers that the scenery at Laggan and Lake Louise surpasses anything that he has ever beheld.

ELKS TO OPEN CLUB

Ceremony Next Tuesday at New Premises of Order in Camp-bell Building.

The Benevolent Protective Order of Elks will formally open their new clubrooms in the top floor of the Campbell building, corner of Fort and Douglas streets, on Tuesday evening next.

The new premises, which have been in course of preparation for some weeks, are elaborately fitted up with an idea to comfort and luxury, having reading rooms, card rooms, lounge, smoking and billiard rooms. The excellent mid-day lunch, which is served daily to members only, is already well-patronized, and promises to be one of the most popular features of the club, although every department is to be built up to the best possible point in order to make the place a popular rendezvous for members. Furthermore, it is the intention of the board of governors to make the Elks' Club of Victoria one of the best and cleanest clubs in the city.

The new board of governors is made up as follows: Joshua Kingham, E. K. Hill, A. E. Allan, F. Wood, Robert Heatherington, H. C. Ferree, and R. F. Ferrell and R. F. Fitzpatrick.

The Elks' Lodge has at present 360 members in the city, this number being made up of many of the leading business and professional men of Victoria. The aim of the members is to further Elkdom in Canada and by this to place the order on such a basis that in the near future, it will become strong enough to affiliate with the Benevolent Order of Elks of America. At present, any member in good standing in Canada is allowed to visit any Elk Club in the United States.

The new clubrooms are in a central and convenient position for the business men who are members, and possess one of the finest panoramic views of the city from its windows.

NAMES CONFUSED.

Much confusion has arisen over the names of A. B. Thomas, who wrote "The Rainbow" for Henry Miller, and Augustus Thomas, of "Arizona" fame. Dramatic writers and the public are prone to confound the two names. A. B. Thomas is one of the younger American playwrights, who has already a number of successes to his credit. He wrote "Her Husband's Wife" for Mr. Miller, in which the latter starred several seasons ago after presenting the comedy for a New York run. "The Rainbow" will prove how ample are the rewards for whom the successful playwrights for whom this season's tour ends Henry Miller will have paid Mr. Thomas a small fortune in royalties, the play serving the star for three years. It will visit Victoria October 16.

RESOLUTIONS OF THANKS were passed to the Congregational church for the use of the hall; to the daily papers; and to all who had helped to further the progress of the work. It was also decided, on motion, that steps should be taken looking to the enforcement of the Lord's Day Act; to study the evils of the liquor traffic and the white slave trade; and to prohibit gambling in connection with race meetings.

It was announced that each school in the city would be entitled to send two delegates for each 50 members, to the provincial Sunday school convention which is to meet in Vancouver from October 21 to 24.

The evening session concluded the convention.
